TARIFF BILL PASSES SENATE: TAFT SIGNS

MEASURE NOW IS THROUGH THE TWO HOUSES

Adoption of the Conference Report Effects the Final Passage

RECEIVES NEARLY ALL
REPUBLICAN VOTES

Upper House Adjourns Sine
Die. Bringing Special Session to Close

WASHINGTON, August 5.—
At 5:58 the Senate adjourned sine die, thus bringing to a close the extra session of the Legislature.

President Taft left the White House for the Capitol to sign the tariff bill at 4:33 p. m.

President Taft affixed his signature to the tariff bill as finally passed by both houses of Congress at 5:06 o'clock this afternoon.

WASHINGTON, August 5.—
The McCumber resolution failed of adoption in the House on a point of order by Mr. Payne.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—At 2:10 p.
m. today the Senate adopted the conference report on the tariff bill, which effects the final passage of that bill through Congress.

The vote was 17 yeas to 31 nays. The bill received all the Republican votes, except those of Senators Clapp, Cummins, Dilliver, La Follette, Beveridge and Nelson.

The Senate then took up the concurrent resolution reducing the rates in the tea schedule.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—Congress will probably be adjourned sine die tonight. Senator Aldrich and Speaker Cannon met today to prepare the ways for passage of the concurrent resolution relating to the hide and leather schedule, which will be brought up immediately after the conference report is adopted.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—The conference report on the urgent deficiency appropriation bill was agreed to by the Senate today. It was not changed.
The House had already agreed to the report.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—At 3:14 p.
m. the Senate adopted the concurrent resolution reducing leather schedule rates.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—The Senate unanimously adopted the concurrent resolution reducing the duties on leather goods at 3:11 p. m. this afternoon.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—Without division the Senate adopted Senator McCumber's drawback resolution with a provision for free cotton bagging added.

Mr. Aldrich declared that the tariff bill could not be amended by the passage of a concurrent resolution. For that reason he said he would move to lay the amendment on the table.

Both Mr. Culberson and McCumber opposed this view.
By 43 to 23 Mr. Culberson's amendment was rejected. Senators Bristow, Clapp and La Follette, "Incident Republicans," voted with the Democrats against the laying of it on the table.
By a vote of 13 to 12 an amendment by Stone of Missouri, to place boots and shoes on the free list, was rejected.
The Aldrich resolution reducing leather duties was then unanimously agreed to.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—The House unanimously adopted the concurrent resolution reducing the duties on leather goods. It had already been adopted by the Senate.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—Speaker Cannon announced the appointment of committees for the Sixty-first Congress, late today. The "Insurgents" against the House rules are disciplined and in a number of instances ranking members have not been given the chairmanship of their committees.
"The following are the new appointments for House committee chairmanships:

Vreeland (New York), banking and currency; Rodenberg (Illinois), industrial arts and exhibitions; Mann (Illinois), interstate and foreign commerce; Weeks (Massachusetts), postoffices and postroads; Alexander (New York), rivers and harbors; Parker (New Jersey), judiciary.

the conference report and finally pass the

CONFESSES TO FRAUD AND BLAMES WIFE

Husband of Woman Arrested
For Faking Injuries
Breaks Down

Frank Johnson, who is accused of complicity in various frauds practiced by Mrs.
Maud Johnson upon various railroad companies throughout the United States, this afternoon, in a confession to Captain of Detectives Petersen, stated that when he married his wife four years ago in Kansas he had no idea that she was a crook, but believed her to be a woman of independent fortune.

He denied all knowledge of the various fraudulent transactions in which his wife was engaged, stating that he never profited by any of them.

Letters, however, in possession of the police, would indicate that the husband is trying to shield himself at the expense of his wife.

ANDREW APPOINTED TO SUCCEED LEACH AS DIRECTOR OF MINTS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—
President Taft today sent to the Senate the nomination of A. Platt Andrew of Massachusetts to be director of the mints.

Mr. Andrew is to succeed
Frank A. Leach, who resigned some time ago to become president of the People's Water Company of Oakland, Cal. Mr.
Andrew is an assistant to the National Monetary Commission and professor of economics in Harvard University.

LOVE LETTER IS READ AT THE THAW HEARING

Communication to Woman By Stanford White Made Public

WARNS HER NOT TO BE MORE ALLURING

Wouldn't Answer For His Actions and Trouble Would Result

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Aug. 5.—By admitting a letter written by Stanford White to a young woman, Justice Mills today will decide the scope of the hearing on the petition of Harry K. Thaw for release from Matteawan. The name of the person to whom the letter was addressed did not transpire. Its introduction was in furtherance of the declared purpose of Mr. Morschauer, Thaw's counsel, to show that the prisoner's beliefs regarding practices of White and his wealthy male associates were not, as the State holds, simply delusions of a disordered mind.

David N. Carvalho, the handwriting expert who set by Thaw during the first trial, said sixty-six letters purporting to come from Stanford White were submitted to him at that time and he pronounced them genuine.

Letter Read in Court

The witness told of Thaw having discussed with him a letter alleged to have been written by White to a girl whom Mr. Carvalho mentioned as "May." Thaw had said this girl told him she had burned the letter because she feared if her father saw it he would kill both White and her. The letter was admitted in evidence against the protest of District Attorney Jerome, who expressed regret that such testimony should be brought out.

The letter was dated April 11 and was
as follows:

"I am the most awful fraud when it comes to letter writing. It is no use.
I have what 'Peter Dooling' calls 'writephobia' and a bad case at that. I am glad you are having such a good time.
A dose of hop after all is the best medicine any of us can take. Whatever you do, do not come back here more alluring than you were, for under those circumstances I could not be responsible for my actions and then there would be 'real trouble.'"

"By the way, when is that Fall boat going to sail?"

"The social whirl has opened and is really quite good. When are you coming back?"

"Lovingly."

Instead of a name the letter was signed with what the witness said was a hand opened with what looked like porcupine quills extending from it.

Jerome explained that this was Stanford White's regular signature in letters to his friends.

Sue Parker Case

Mr. Carvalho then took up the "Sue Parker" episode. He said that a woman of this name made a sworn statement after the events alleged to have taken place between her and White. She produced a bundle of letters which she said
White had written her and offered them for sale to Thaw's attorneys for $5000.

The letters were finally bought, the witness said, for $500, with the understanding that the owner was to receive $500 more if they could be used at the first trial.

The woman's affidavit, Carvalho said, described in detail how White had first met her when she was 17 years of age and later taken her to a place known as "the Eagle's Nest," given her wine and other liquors or attempted to. Asked why she was willing to tell this story regarding a man who, after all, had been kind to her, Carvalho testified that the girl said:

"He has taken from me more than I ever got from him, and now that he is dead, and I am destitute, I feel justified in selling the letters for what I can get."

Thaw took the stand long enough to identify the letters as having been given to him. When Carvalho resumed he testified that he had told Thaw he believed these letters were White's and in a measure they substantiated Miss Parker's story.

Cross-examined by Mr. Jerome, Carvalho admitted there was nothing obvious in the Parker letters, nothing to prove absolutely the character of her downfall. He said Thaw told him White treated the woman named courteous until he learned she was not a woman of loose

Park Commission Threatens to Resign

Park Commissioner James P. Edoff, at a meeting of the park commission this afternoon, vigorously objected to the amount of money apportioned by City Auditor Gross for the use of the park commission during the coming year, stating that there was only enough money available for park purposes to buy postage stamps.

The disgust of Edoff was so great that he suggested the park commissioners use three of the stamps before mentioned for the purpose of sending their resignations to Mayor Mott.

The commissioners asked for $241,000,
and were allowed by Auditor Gross, $130,000. The fixed expenses of the commission for dragging Lake Merritt, and the payment of necessary labor, throughout the parks of the city, is $105,000, thus leaving but $25,000 for development work. This sum, Edoff contended, was but a miserably pittance for the commission.

Commissioner Edoff said: "The sum

BERKELEY, Aug. 5.—"The girls of the university should not be allowed the freedom that is proposed in giving them self-government in the new dormitory, for it will result in a degeneration of the moral standard of the women students," says Professor Z. B. Smith, rector of the Golden Rule Order of the World.

"Professor Smith does not know what he is talking about," says Professor Josiah Pelvig, of the social science department of the university. "His attack upon the morals of university women is unjustified. Professor Smith is not in a position to know the conditions at the university, anyway, and he shows plainly that he is unfamiliar with the situation
when he makes a statement of that kind.
The morals of our college girls are as high, if not higher, than the moral condition of women in general."

"A high moral standard is the natural outgrowth of education and that is what is being obtained by the women of the university. So far from agreeing with him in his statement that the moral condition of the college girls is low, I think that it is exceptionally high and I do not know where he will go to find women of
a higher moral standing."

Attack From Pulpit

Professor Smith made his attack from the pulpit of the First Christian Church of Berkeley last Sunday evening, in speaking of the Golden Rule Order, of which he is the founder.

He said: "The code of morals existing in the university is an outrage and I do not speak merely of the women students.
There are members of the faculty who come in for their share of criticism in this regard and heads of departments at that."

"If the public but knew of the conditions existing at the university there would be one of the greatest uprisings in this State that has ever caused the foundations of a nation to tremble. I know what I am talking about. The actions of some of the men, and I do not hesitate to say some of the women, of the university, would make this and ancestral dish with shame. I do not know where he will go to find women of
a higher moral standing."

Outrage, She Says

"It has been announced that the women who live in the new dormitory will be placed on their own responsibility.
They are going to allow these young girls to govern themselves. This is an outrage and will surely result in a complete degeneration of the morals of the college girls. There is a tendency among the authorities to foster immorality and it should be discouraged. President Wheeler is not ignorant of these conditions, but manages to keep them from

KEY ROUTE IS TO INVADE TERRITORY OF S. P.

Plans to Run Train Into Large District East of Oakland

PROPOSES TO EXTEND TWELFTH STREET LINE

Single Car Now in Use Is Unable to Accommodate the Traffic

The Key Route Company is going to carry the railroad war, which is threatened by the Southern Pacific, by the latter's promised extension of its electrified lines to San Leandro and Hayward, into the same territory, by running full trains of electric cars which will carry passengers both to and from the Key Route mole in the bay off Emeryville.

At the present time residents in the Fruitvale and other districts to the eastward who patronize the Key Route line do so by means of cars which connect either at the corner of Broadway and Twelfth street with a single car, which in turn connects via Poplar street, with the train of the San Francisco, Oakland and San Jose road, or with a train at the Twenty-second-street terminus of the same line at Broadway and Twenty-second street.

The depot at Twenty-second street was intended to accommodate the greater number of the patrons living in the eastern part of the city as also in the suburbs, and serves the purpose in a manner which is satisfactory to the patrons for the reason that they have to make only one change, and that is when they leave the street cars at the depot referred to in order to take the train for the Key Route ferry at Emeryville.

Single Car Inadequate

The single car on the run to Twelfth street and Broadway was put in service when the Oakland, San Francisco and San Jose line opened its service on Poplar street, which was done by the building of a track on that street connecting with the line on Fortieth street making connection with the trains to and from the Key Route ferry. To further accommodate patrons it was decided to run the Poplar street car connecting with the Key Route ferry as far east as Broadway.

For some months this car has been running and has been found to give so much accommodation to people in the heart of town who desire to travel between this city and San Francisco by means of the Key Route that the company is now making arrangements to not only extend the service of the single car not only beyond and to the eastward of Broadway, but also to substitute for the single car a train of electric coaches which will be run as far as San Leandro, and practically into the territory which it is proposed soon to be served by the electrified service of the Southern Pacific Railroad.

The company is of the opinion that this extension will be justified by the patronage it will receive all along the line, to say nothing of what it will derive from the business section of the city.

Company Plans Train

Although the single car which has been run to and from the Key Route train on Fortieth street from the corner of Broadway and Twelfth street was intended to do only a local business up to that point it has been found to accommodate passengers from the eastern part of the town as well as transient passengers and commuters from the center of the city.

This is shown by the fact that there has been a gradual increase of 1100 passengers carried on it daily. Of these, on an average 600 pay cash fares and the others, 500 in number, are commuters.

The company has therefore made up its mind to extend the service eastward by means of a train, and as this will require a special move for a change of some kind in the present franchise of the corporation the matter will be brought before the Council for the permission, such as it is, which will be required under the circumstances.

CANDIDATE CROCKER IS A TALESMAN IN CALHOUN TRIAL

Finally Released From Service as a Juror by Judge Lawlor Under Section 201 of the Code of Civil Procedure

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 5.—The trial of Patrick Calhoun seems destined, either directly or indirectly, to become mixed up in the coming political campaign, and a great deal of interest is being taken in the numbers of candidates, who happen to appear in response to subpoenas as jurors in the case.

There have been aspirants for all sorts of municipal offices among those who are daily sifted through the legal routine at Carpenter's Hall, but today William Crocker, the well-known planing mill man, appeared, and was released by Judge Lawlor on the ground of his candidacy.

On the return of the sheriff, his name appeared. William Crocker, planing mill man, aged forty-seven, retired, Republican. When examined by the court, Mr. Crocker said:

Is a Candidate

"I have expressed myself freely regarding this case, and my opinion has been published in the newspapers. Besides that I am a candidate at the coming election."

"I would not like to excuse you on that ground without the consent of counsel, and only one side is represented this morning," declared the judge. "Will you be here tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock?"

Mr. Crocker had stated that he had served last year in Judge Cook's court and offered that as a ground for excuse. One of the detectives taking notes on behalf of the defense, however, had been directed by the court that as far as Mr. Calhoun was concerned the juror might be excused, and with the consent of District Attorney Langdon he was released under Section 201 of the Code of Civil Procedure, which has reference to political aspirants.

An astonishingly large number of veniremen who were summoned on the special panel during the last trial were among those who responded to subpoenas, and were on hand in Judge Lawlor's court today. In each instance they were forced to remain until their examinations on the previous occasion of their appearance were looked up, and their excuse agreed to by counsel.

Among these was Spencer G. Buckbee, the well-known real estate man, who, being a member of the National Guard, is exempt from jury duty. Judge Lawlor expressed a regret that he had not been aware of Mr. Buckbee's exemption so that he could have released him at the opening of the session at 9 o'clock, instead of forcing him to remain until nearly noon.

Company, wholesale commission merchants, a member of the local grand jury, was also summoned, and excused on the ground of his being a public official.

The entire morning was occupied in the personal examination by the court and an adjournment was taken at 12:30 until 2 o'clock, when the regular questioning by counsel goes on.

FOOD SCARCE, STRIKE NOW IN ACUTE STAGE

Trouble in Sweden Has Finally Come to the Critical Point

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 5.—Stockholm today is suffering from a shortage of food, which so far is the most notable result of the labor conflict that reached its acute stages the beginning of this week. The stock of bread is already almost exhausted and meat is scarce and expensive. The restaurants have raised their prices and the figures today are prohibitive except for persons possessed of ample means. The strikers themselves are living virtually on fish. Thousands of them are camping out, some in tents, but many without shelter, on the shores of Lake Malar, where they spend their time in angling.

The authorities have taken charge of the milk supply of the city and soldiers are distributing milk in limited quantities and supervising the sale from milk cans at the railroad stations. The deliveries of ice have ceased. This is especially trying, as the weather is unusually hot.

Paupers from the State poor house have enlisted to replace the striking grave diggers and undertakers, and instead of hearse stretchers are being used to carry corpses through the streets to the cemeteries. The employees of the gas works and the electric light plants have gone on strike and as a result military guards have been placed over the establishments.

The authorities contend that this plan is necessary and assert that last night they frustrated an attempt to blow up the gas works with dynamite. A gunboat has been stationed opposite the gas works and no boats are allowed to pass between it and the shore. A battalion of grenadiers from Linköping and a detachment of 250 men from the Västergötland regiment have been ordered to Stockholm.

At Götterberg work at all the slaughter houses has come to an end and the general strike committee has called upon the railroad men and the printers to join them.

character and then he wanted to ruin her.

Answering a question, Carvalho said he received no compensation for appearing as a witness for Thaw.

Carvalho finished with the statement that Thaw during their associations during the trial, impressed him as rational, Edward Robinson, who had charge of the Ponikve case during Thaw's confinement there, declared that the prisoner's wife spent from two to five hours with him during her numerous calls and that they seemed to be friends.

Mr. Morshauser then began the reading of old testimony to show Thaw's conduct and condition while in England and during his confinement in the Tombs.

The representation of the trial evidence occupied the time up to recess. The portions read all bore on Thaw's mental condition.

Thaw then returned to the court room. Mr. O'Mara said the paper contained some interesting facts for the jury.

On his way to the court room an old woman stepped behind Thaw and tapped him on the shoulder. The prisoner wheeled quickly, but the woman had already turned away. "I just wanted to say I had touched him," she said afterward.

Mrs. Mary Copley Thaw, mother of the prisoner, took the stand at 2:30 p. m. She told why her son dismissed D. M. Delmas, his chief counsel in the first case. Delmas was engaged mainly for the summing up, she said, and with that his work was done.

"How much did Mr. Delmas receive?" asked Mr. Morshauser.

"He was to have received $25,000, but he got $50,000."

"Why?"

"Because Mr. Gleason came to my son and told him Delmas would drop the case if he were not paid more."

"And your son thought it unwise to change lawyers in the middle of the trial?"

Counsel Quarreled

"I suppose so," Mr. Thaw said. She understood her son's counsel quarreled among themselves. Mrs. Thaw told for the second time the story of the day on which she was going to see her husband in the prison. She said that she had intended to do so, but she was prevented by the fact that she was not allowed to see him.

What I have said I will say, and am sure that every loyal citizen of the state will sanction what I have said. In truth, every man, woman and child in California or in America, for the matter, who has an intelligent particle of religion, believes and will insist that not only the University of California, but every public institution of learning in the land should establish a chair of moral ethics in their curriculum, and my one prayer is that this will be effected in the near future.

Warren Takes Floor

Senator Warren took the floor shortly after noon and entered upon an extended denunciation of the hide and leather schedule. He called on Senators Aldrich, Gillette and Dill, and said that he thought of the justice of free raw material.

He declared that they did not approve of the idea of admitting hides free of duty. Very similar replies were received from Senators Warren, Dilliver, Gillette and Flint, who were called on to state their views.

"Never before was a tariff bill published under such a storm of disapproval," said Mr. Bailey, speaking in opposition to the report. "You hope, I said, addressing the Republicans, 'the returning tide of prosperity that people will forget the bad feature of the bill.'"

land the people will take a $3.00 out of your hides in all those western states." Hisses of laughter swept over the chamber at this remark in which Mr. Aldrich joined.

As soon as the vote on the conference report on the tariff bill was announced, Mr. Aldrich called up his concurrent resolution reducing the duty on leather goods.

Most Important

Senator Aldrich declared the bill to be the most important and comprehensive act ever adopted by the American congress. He challenged Mr. Bailey's statement that the rates were higher than the present law. "If challenge any senator to point out a single monopoly which is protected by this bill," he added. "Monopolies cannot live under the protection policy."

Any attempt of the opponents of this measure to show that it increased duties above the protective line or made them excessive was founded on a mis take, he declared.

"So long as we have a government by parties in the United States," he said, "referring to a criticism that the President had been consulted in the negotiation of the bill, 'the President of the United States, who is the head of the executive branch, is interested in all that in carrying out the policies of his party, and I think I should have been secret in my trust if I had not conferred with the President with reference to the provisions of this act.'"

Mr. Aldrich said the people of the United States were committed to the protective system and could be counted on to sustain it.

"The bill was safely passed, and conveyed to the House by Mr. Crockett, one of the clerks of the Senate," he announced to the body that the Senate had agreed to the report. He had the momentous message with him and passed it over to the House employes, who in turn handed it to the enrolling clerk and Republican applause.

PAPER MEN MEET

BOSTON, Aug. 5.—The National Paper Trade Association of the United States opened its fifth annual gathering here today in this city to continue until Saturday.

Senator Dilliver, the first speaker, opened his remarks with a defense of his contention for lower customs duties, denied the right of other Republican senators to question his position in the Senate.

Dolliver Speaks

"It has not been my fortune," he said, "to enjoy that mutual good will that should meet the efforts of a senator to change the tariff laws of the United States."

"The people of his State," he added, "had been referred to as 'farm folk,' while the State itself had been declared to be 'unbelievable, even to Populism and greenbackism.' Iowa, he insisted, has always been loyal to Republican standards."

"We have a tariff commission now," declared Mr. Dolliver, referring to the opposition to the creation of such a body. "They are experts, although they have never been appointed by any public authority."

Criticism Members

This commission, he insisted, had written the iron and steel schedule and the cotton schedule, and yet, he said, when it was proposed to have a tariff commission, the men who accepted the mandate of this tariff commission vigorously opposed the suggestion. He criticized the work of the members of the board of general appraisers whom he spoke of as "professional certifiers."

Presenting a statement prepared by the treasury department, Mr. Dolliver said he showed the rates in the cotton schedule were increased over the present law all along the line and some of them as much as 100 per cent.

"And yet," he added, "the statement has been made here that only minor and insignificant changes had been made in that schedule."

"The American people are being duped by that kind of humbug and misrepresentation."

Containing that there was no raw material in this country, Mr. Ellits of West Virginia expressed the regret that the so-called free raw material campaign had evidently been started.

Mr. Herburn said there had sprung up a new doctrine of veto that he could not approve.

"We are told that certain items must not be placed in the bill or the bill will be vetoed, that is a threat that amounts to a veto of such items," said Mr. Herburn. "There is," he added, "no duty in this bill so high as to offend me."

Warren Takes Floor

Senator Warren took the floor shortly after noon and entered upon an extended denunciation of the hide and leather schedule. He called on Senators Aldrich, Gillette and Dill, and said that he thought of the justice of free raw material.

He declared that they did not approve of the idea of admitting hides free of duty. Very similar replies were received from Senators Warren, Dilliver, Gillette and Flint, who were called on to state their views.

"Never before was a tariff bill published under such a storm of disapproval," said Mr. Bailey, speaking in opposition to the report. "You hope, I said, addressing the Republicans, 'the returning tide of prosperity that people will forget the bad feature of the bill.'"

Mr. Bailey declared that the present bill would not improve conditions, although the Republicans would endeavor to spread the idea that it would. In the opinion of the Texas senator the effect of the conference was but a fairy tale intended to catch such Republican senators as Mr. Clapp of Minneapolis, "and men of his kind."

Crossing the aisle and directing his remarks specifically to Mr. Aldrich, Mr. Bailey declared that nobly believed in the doctrine of free raw material, adding that the Rhode Island senator did not believe in it except when it affected New England interests.

"But," he said, "when you also the tax off hides for the benefit of New England."

$15,000 SPENT ON INCORRIGIBLES

Reports Show Unusually Good Record For Alameda County, Compared to Other Places

Less than $15,000 a year is the cost to the county of Alameda of the children committed to the Whittier and Preston State schools, and to private institutions, according to a report transmitted to District Attorney Van Donahue today by Chief Assistant Probation Officer Ollie F. Snedgar. In Los Angeles county the expenses for children committed to the Whittier school alone is $18,000 per year, while in San Francisco, the total expense is $12,000, or eight times that in Alameda county.

These figures, according to Probation Officer Bureau, are evidence of the conservative and economical management of this branch of county affairs under Juvenile Judge Ogle, with whom the district attorney and the probation officer emphatically agree as to the wisdom of saddling on a county the expense of caring for children who may by good probationary oversight be kept in their own or other family homes.

The total number of children in private institutions is now 28, and 17 are cared for in family homes, which are more and more preferred by the court to institutional treatment. There are 27 boys and 18 girls. The institutions now represented are the Boys' and Girls' Aid Society of San Francisco, Berkeley C. J. O'Leary Organization Society, Catholic, 1 Lunatic Bureau Children's Agency, 4 of San Francisco, Golden Gate Orphan aged Children, Spring, Oakland Assn. aged Children, St. Catherine's Home for Training School for Girls, St. Vincent's Orphanage, and Pajaro Valley Roman Catholic Orphanage at Watsonville. There are also children paid for by their parents on court commitment to those and other institutions. Total yearly cost is $5040.

There are 70 children at Whittier and 44 at Preston, the direct charge upon the county being $11 per month in each case, the total at the Whittier school being $8960 and at the Preston school $5808. The total for Whittier, Preston and the private institutions is $14,868 per year.

VISITORS KEPT LONG DISTANCE FROM HARRIMAN

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—E. H. Harriman has purchased three miles of public roadway from the town of Woodbury, Orange county, New York, and now it will be impossible for a stranger to approach closer than five miles to Mr. Harriman's magnificent near country estate. Mr. Harriman decided to the town in exchange a private road five miles long, which he had built at his own expense and which covers a route through the town, but in a roundabout manner. He is also said to have paid a big money consideration. The Harriman family desires seclusion from strangers. The family is expected home each in September.

JAMES F. NICHOLS IS SENT TO JAIL

Judge Sends Him to Prison For 3 Days Because He Failed With Alimony

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 5.—Former Tax Collector James F. Nichols was this morning sentenced to three days' imprisonment in the county jail by Superior Judge Van Nostrand, for contempt of court for failing to pay his wife alimony as directed in the decree. The Nichols were divorced last November, and according to the judgment of the court at that time the official was directed to pay his wife $20 a month.

For four months Nichols has allowed these payments to lapse, and as a result his wife has had him brought to the bar to explain matters.

Failed to Pay

He failed to comply with the direction of Judge Van Nostrand to pay up the $80 due, and today the strong arm of the law brought down a judgment of three days in the county jail upon him. At the earnest request of his counsel, Attorney Gilt, he was granted a writ of habeas corpus from the District Court of Appeal.

MRS. MARY F. WEBSTER DIES AT FAMILY HOME

ALAMEDA, Aug. 5.—Mrs. Mary F. Webster, the widow of the late Benjamin F. Webster, died this morning at her home, 1121 Morton street. Mrs. Webster had been in delicate health for some time. She was a pioneer of California and had resided here for a number of years.

Mrs. C. H. Macdonald, well known resident of this city, is a daughter of the deceased. Frank W. and Sadie A. Webster are surviving children. A grandson, Webster Macdonald, survives the deceased.

Mrs. Webster was a native of Bath, Me. During her lifetime, Mrs. Webster was prominent in the affairs of the First Presbyterian Church, and took an active part in furthering the work of the church until she became ill.

The funeral will be held Saturday morning at 10:30 o'clock from her late residence. The remains will be cremated at Odd Fellows Cemetery, San Francisco.

Girls Deny Lack of Morals

being held up to the close inspection of the public."

The young women of the university are incensed over the attack made upon their morals by the stern professor. They say it is a shame. He does not know what he is talking about and should be publicly denounced for making such charges.

Miss Barbara Reid, one of the most prominent members of the senior class of the university and a member of the Chi Omega sorority, denounces Smith and his attack upon the morals of the university women.

Girls Have Freedom

Miss Reid said: "A man who would make a statement like that should be dealt with in some manner befitting the severity of the outrageous charges that he makes. His attack is absolutely without foundation and he should be held ignorant of the conditions that will be in existence in the new dormitory life. It is true that the girls will be allowed a certain amount of freedom and that they will have more freedom than they have now. They will be constantly in attendance and will see that the girls behave themselves properly. However, I do not think that any of the college girls need watching and the maintenance of the dormitories is not for the sake of propriety, they are for the sake of the girls themselves."

The moral condition of the university girls is as high as that of any women of the United States, and I notice that Professor Smith does not attempt to give any foundation for his statement.

"It is simply an outrage. Every now and then some fanatic gets up in public and makes some foolish statement of this kind and shows his ignorance to the general public and those that know anything of the conditions at the university."

"Such men should not be allowed to speak in public. They merely make a lot of startling statements and show no proof of the charges that they sling before the public. I very much regret that the attack made by this man and I think every girl that ever attended the university will feel the same way."

Another Girl Angry

Miss Lella McKibben, also a senior student and a member of the Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority, and one of the most prominent women of the university, is also angry at the attack made by Professor Smith. Miss McKibben said today that it is useless for a man to deny the attack made by a man who is plainly showing his ignorance. Such an attack needs no denial from me, for it is self-evident that the man does not know what he is talking about. The life in the new dormitories will greatly improve the life of the college women that live in clubhouses and sororities. Matrons will be in attendance.

Girls Well Behaved

Mrs. Murv Hetschel, also a prominent senior woman of the university, said she did not hear Professor Smith's attack upon the university girls and am therefore not qualified to speak upon the matter. I know that the college girls are well behaved and have never heard anything that would lead me to believe

PLACES TAX ON 'NEAR BEER' DRINKS

Federal Collector Claims That Product Comes Within the Government Laws

THREATENS ARREST TO ALL HANDLING BEVERAGE

Asks Payment of $30 From Each Person Now Selling the Product

BERKELEY, Aug. 5.—Although the thirty residents of Berkeley thought that they had solved the problem of satisfying their desire for something resembling the "cold steam of beer," that is prohibited within the city limits of Berkeley, "near beer," the solution of the temperance problem here, has received a serious setback, at least as far as the man behind the counter is concerned.

Although Berkeley beer is said to be non-intoxicating, it is admitted that the beverage contains alcohol. On account of this fact, Internal Revenue Collector Samuel P. Rutter, of the Federal government, swooped down upon sixteen establishments of this city yesterday and demanded that they pay a tax of $30 each for the privilege of selling alcoholic liquors for one year. Collector Rutter claims that the license for selling the beverage is secured by the dealers at once and that they are not to be arrested if they fail to comply with his demand.

The government, according to Rutter, demands a license if the beverage sold contains more than one-half of one percent alcohol. "Near Beer" contains 2.7 percent and therefore comes under the law. The fact that the beverage does not cause the consumer to talk loudly or take up more than his share of the sidewalk, does not affect the iron-bound rules and regulations of Uncle Sam.

BEE STINGS A CURE FOR BAD RHEUMATISM

REDDING, Aug. 5.—Tortured by rheumatic pains from which he has suffered for months, James B. Holt, head of the contracting firm of Holt & Gregg of this city, submitted himself to the stings of thirty-nine honey bees yesterday and today walked to his office for the first time in many days, declaring that his joints were as limber as those of a boy.

Holt and born so badly crippled with the disease for some months that he was compelled to use a cane to go from his home to his office three blocks away. He spent two months taking the baths at a mineral springs, famous for alleviating the sufferings of rheumatic patients, but was not benefited.

At last, on the advice of a friend, he submitted to the stinging treatment. Ten or a dozen bees were applied to each achy joint, while the patient lay down with the pain of their stings. After it was over he became nauseated and it still lasting more than two hours followed.

He retired for the night and finally fell asleep. When he awoke this morning he was surprised to feel no aching in his joints. He found that they had limbered up completely during the night, and walked to his office, declaring he had not felt so well before in the last ten years.

VALLEJO GIRL'S BIG RECORD IN HER SCHOOL

VALLEJO, Aug. 5.—The Board of Education of this city has just taken official notice of the remarkable record of attendance made by Emily B. Blackwood, who enters the Vallejo high school this year. PLANS SUBMITTED FOR NEW SCHOOL

Alameda Board of Education Defers Acceptance Until Next Meeting

ALAMEDA, Aug. 5.—Fourteen different plans for the erection of the new school building at Eighth street and Santa Clara avenue have been submitted to the Board of Education by architects. The designs were discussed at the regular meeting of the school directors, but action was deferred until next Tuesday night, when the board has called a special session to name the architect for the new building.

Framed drawings of pretty school houses of the Mission style of architecture adorn the walls of the board of education offices in the city hall today, and visitors have inspected the designs. Among the architects who submitted plans are Hamilton & Murdoch, C. H. Russell, Starbuck & Wild, Stone & Smith, Carter & Kenyon, Cuthbertson, Bradbeer & Young, W. Garden, Mitchell and H. G. Corwin. Each architect was given ten minutes to explain his plans. All the designs correspond with the requirements demanded by the Board of Education, and are complete in every detail.

Judging from the water color drawings of the designs presented by the different architects, the new school building will be one of the most artistic and unique structures in the city of Alameda.

VICIOUS BULL IS CAUSE OF FIGHT

Woman Has Rancher Arrested on Charge of Battery Following Trouble

FRUITVUE, Aug. 5.—Upon complaint of Mrs. Amelia Julo, a warrant was issued this morning by Judge William Geary of Brooklyn township for Joseph Nunes on a charge of battery.

Mrs. Nunes this morning and stated that on Tuesday of this week a vicious bull belonging to Nunes broke down several fences on her property in Redwood canyon. She further stated that when she went to Nunes and berated him, Nunes became angry and shook and choked her. Judge Geary issued a warrant and placed it in the hands of Constable Allen for service. Allen will today go to the King ranch in Redwood canyon, where Nunes resides, and place him under arrest.

VESSEL STILL MISSING

CAPE TOWN, Aug. 5.—No trace has been found of the missing British steamer Wreath and the anxiety regarding her safety is increasing. The vessel left Port Natal July 20, since when she has not been seen. She was on board 304 persons.

GIRLS TRAP BRUI WHILE ENJOYING VACATION TRIP

BERKELEY, Aug. 5.—"Old Bruin," who has long roamed the hills of Placer county and is quite a noted character among his kind, having eluded the efforts to capture him of all the residents on his "beat" for many a year, proving too big for the old trappers, fell into the trap set by two college girls yesterday.

The two girls were spending a vacation near Clear Lake in Placer county. They learned the art of trapping early in the summer, but had not gained much success until yesterday. Each day the college girls visited their traps, to discover that they had captured a large cinnamon bear in one of their traps.

Although the girls were successful in catching the bear, the task of releasing him from the trap was too much for them. They called one of the members of the opposite sex, who accompanied the girls.

Miss Charlotte Blendenbach is a senior student in the University of California, while her sister is a member of the entering class, having graduated last term from the Berkeley high school. The fair trappers will have their prize brought to Berkeley.

MAKE CHANGES IN THE YOSEMITE

Assemblyman Otis Gives Out Number of Suggestions That May Be of Interest

ALAMEDA, Aug. 5.—Assemblyman Frank Otis, his wife and son, Stephen Otis, returned from a four weeks' trip in the Yosemite Valley last night.

When seen at his home, 1609 Santa Clara avenue, this morning, Assemblyman Otis divulged a number of interesting facts regarding conditions in the valley and laid stress upon the improvements made there since the region had come under federal control. He said:

"The verdict of all who entered the valley this year was that it was more systematically managed and had made marked advance in many ways during the past four years. I noticed a great change myself. The government has taken interest in the improvement of this magnificent territory and everywhere are noted marks of its work."

"The roads are being repaired, and a contract has been let by the government for the improvement of a stretch of road for many miles in length. This road extends from the Sentinel Hotel to the Bridal Veil falls."

"This road will be macadamized with material from El Portal. Another improvement contemplated by the government is the erection of a series of hotels to skirt the rim of the valley. A government engineer is in the valley now, investigating for this purpose. He told me that a hotel would be erected on Glacier Point and on a number of the other high peaks. The government is certainly sparing no expense and when the improvements are made, the valley will be a beautiful sight."

"Major Forsythe, the superintendent of the valley, told me that he expected to register 15,000 people in the valley here this close of the season. The trade is increasing each year and already 10,000 persons have found their way into the beautiful domain. The government derives an income of about $16,000 annually from the valley. The licenses demanded for campers and others all go into the federal treasury? This sum and considerable more will be expended on immediate improvements."

"The absence of all saloons or liquor dispensaries was noted by the valley by the tourists. Since the valley came under federal management, about four years ago, the saloons have been abolished and now the only place where liquor can be obtained is at the hotel tables."

Assemblyman and Mrs. Otis made most of the peaks in the valley and forced passages seldom taken by the ordinary tourist. Assemblyman Otis stated that he had the most enjoyable days of his life at the case of Dr. P. S. Bruin, who gave a "pink tea" at which he marshaled all the Alamedans in the valley.

STOCKTON, Aug. 5.—John Sanchez, who has a wife and a young child in this city, was placed on trial this morning in the Superior Court, charged with conspiracy to defraud a bank. He is charged with the conspiracy of a sixteen-year-old girl, also a resident of this city. The girl, although accused by the District Attorney of being an unwilling witness, testified that Sanchez took her to a park, where he put his arms around her and kissed her several times. She said he also importuned her to take a trip with him to San Francisco and to Arizona, which she consented to do but was taken in custody by the Juvenile Court before they could get away.

OLD TIME RESIDENT DIES AT SAN LEANDRO

SAN LEANDRO, Aug. 5.—Manual Zraan, 84 years of age, and who, for thirty years past, has been a resident of Alameda county, died last night at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Frank Rogers, on Dutton avenue.

The deceased was a well known contractor throughout the county, having in years past been engaged in the contracting business. Of late years he had been failing and the end came last night, just four months after his eighty-fourth birthday.

WASPS NEARLY STING A MAN TO DEATH

MARYSVILLE, Aug. 5.—A peddler named Jackson and his horse were nearly stung to death by wasps at the Padan ranch north of Chico yesterday. The wasps first swarmed over the animal, which in its frantic efforts to rid itself of them became entangled in the harness. The owner in trying to free the horse, was stung frightfully on his head, face, neck and arms. Both horse and man are under the care of a surgeon.

CHURCHWOMEN TO HOLD A SOCIAL

Musical and Dance Arranged By Altar Society of St. Bernard's

MELROSE, August 4.—The Ladies' Altar Society of St. Bernard's Catholic Church of this place is making elaborate preparations for an entertainment and dance on August 7, in Seminary Hall. The affair, which is being given under the auspices of the Altar Society, is under the general supervision of the Rev. James Kelly. A committee consisting of Mrs. Emily Ustie, Mrs. E. Calahan and Miss K. V. Donlon, is attending to the details of the entertainment. Dancing will commence at 8:30. The affair will be devoted to the new Catholic church that is now in process of construction at Elmhurst. W. D. Bryant will be chairman of the evening and floor manager of the dance.

The program for the entertainment will be as follows: Vocal solo, Miss Gladys Webster; instrumental duet, by J. D. Heagerty and Miss May Flanagan, recitation, John Budd; vocal solo, Miss Gladys Webster, accompanied on the piano by L. G. Gregory; instrumental solo, by Edward J. Burns; vocal solo, M. Thompson; flute solo, by Miss Lillian Gregory.

The program will commence at 8:30. An admission of 25 cents will be charged.

MRS. ELOIS ARENDS, who will take a prominent part in the production of "The Obstinate Husband."

PITCHBURG, Aug. 5.—A new dramatic organization has been formed in this place and already forty residents have signified their intention of connecting themselves with the society.

The first production to be given under the auspices of the organization will take place at Elmhurst during the Catholic Fair that is to be given in that place next month, on the day that is to be allotted to Pitchburg.

A three-act farce, "The Obstinate Husband," will be presented by six members of the organization. The cast is being coached by Mrs. Elois Arends, a resident of this place, who formerly fulfilled an engagement with the Orpheum circuit, being well known to the public as a famous whistling artist. Since her marriage some years ago, Mrs. Arends has left the stage, but is at present taking a lively interest in the Pitchburg Dramatic Society, of which she is one of the leading members.

The cast for "The Obstinate Husband" is as follows: Mrs. Elois Arends, the Obstinate Husband; Clara Fields, the Messrs. W. D. Bryant, J. Y. Verry and L. Coram.

VANDALS WRECK LUGCHITTE HOME

ALAMEDA, Aug. 5.—The interior of the Lucchittie home at 822 Park street presents a scene of ruinous decay and desolation. Doors have been broken down and the inside of the house has been wrecked. The police have been working on the case, but thus far they have been unable to locate the men who wantonly intruded.

It is believed that revenge is the object of the unknown marauders and on this theory the police are working. Lucchittie has no idea as to who his enemies are and can recall no one who has grudged against him.

The furniture in the house is in fact a mass of ruins. Tables have been split in twain, bureaus overturned and scarred, electric fixtures torn from their hangings and in general the furnishings broken and smashed.

WHEELMEN SEND UNIQUE INVITATIONS TO DANCE

ALAMEDA, Aug. 5.—The Alameda Wheelmen have issued unique invitations for their dance to be given at Central Hall on Wednesday evening, August 25th. The bids are in the form of dainty white cardboard envelopes, the top of which conceals an invitation which is printed on the inside in small letters.

The committee of arrangements consists of J. H. Weinstein, Richard Werner, L. Langley, I. Foster and J. Nelson. Elaborate plans have been made for the affair, which will doubtless prove a social success. The wheelmen are good dancers and have hosts of friends who will avail themselves of the opportunity to enjoy their hospitality.

GIRL ACCUSER OF SANCHEZ IS UNWILLING WITNESS

STOCKTON, Aug. 5.—John Sanchez, who has a wife and a young child in this city, was placed on trial this morning in the Superior Court, charged with conspiracy to defraud a bank. ALAMEDA, Aug. 5.—The interior of the Lucchittie home at 822 Park street presents a scene of ruinous decay and desolation. Doors have been broken down and the inside of the house has been wrecked. The police have been working on the case, but thus far they have been unable to locate the men who wantonly intruded.

WHEELMEN SEND UNIQUE INVITATIONS TO DANCE

ALAMEDA, Aug. 5.—The Alameda Wheelmen have issued unique invitations for their dance to be given at Central Hall on Wednesday evening, August 25th. The bids are in the form of dainty white cardboard envelopes, the top of which conceals an invitation which is printed on the inside in small letters.

The committee of arrangements consists of J. H. Weinstein, Richard Werner, L. Langley, I. Foster and J. Nelson. Elaborate plans have been made for the affair, which will doubtless prove a social success. The wheelmen are good dancers and have hosts of friends who will avail themselves of the opportunity to enjoy their hospitality.

STOCKTON, Aug. 5.—John Sanchez, who has a wife and a young child in this city, was placed on trial this morning in the Superior Court, charged with conspiracy to defraud a bank. He is charged with the conspiracy of a sixteen-year-old girl, also a resident of this city. The girl, although accused by the District Attorney of being an unwilling witness, testified that Sanchez took her to a park, where he put his arms around her and kissed her several times. She said he also importuned her to take a trip with him to San Francisco and to Arizona, which she consented to do but was taken in custody by the Juvenile Court before they could get away.

SAN LEANDRO, Aug. 5.—Manual Zraan, 84 years of age, and who, for thirty years past, has been a resident of Alameda county, died last night at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Frank Rogers, on Dutton avenue.

The deceased was a well known contractor throughout the county, having in years past been engaged in the contracting business. Of late years he had been failing and the end came last night, just four months after his eighty-fourth birthday.

WASPS NEARLY STING A MAN TO DEATH

MARYSVILLE, Aug. 5.—A peddler named Jackson and his horse were nearly stung to death by wasps at the Padan ranch north of Chico yesterday. The wasps first swarmed over the animal, which in its frantic efforts to rid itself of them became entangled in the harness. The owner in trying to free the horse, was stung frightfully on his head, face, neck and arms. Both horse and man are under the care of a surgeon.

PETER M. WHITE PASSES AWAY AT HOME

Wealthy Lumber Merchant, Who Retired From Business Four Years Ago, is Dead

WAS A PIONEER OF THE ENCINAL CITY

Advancing Years Cut Off Life of Widely Known Business Man

ALAMEDA, Aug. 5.—After an illness of four days, though he had been in poor health for some months, Peter M. White, manufacturer and wealthy lumber dealer, who was one of the oldest pioneers of this place, died at his home, 2219 Santa Clara avenue, yesterday afternoon. The funeral will be held from the family residence tomorrow at 2 o'clock, when the Rev. Dr. Brush, pastor of the Presbyterian church, will officiate.

White, who came here in 1864, was widely known in the trans-bay vicinity as a man of sterling character and irreproachable business integrity. Possessed of a kindly disposition, he made an enviable number of friends during his long and useful life, and his passing will be generally mourned.

Came to Coast

"When he first came to this coast in the earlier days he engaged in the carriage manufacturing business, giving it up after a few years, however, to enter into partnership with his brother, Asa L. White, in the hardware and lumber business in San Francisco. He retired some months ago because of advancing years and failing health, and has since lived very quietly at the old home place."

He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. William H. Burnham of this city, and two brothers, Asa L. White of Oakland and Jacob White of this city.

White leaves a valuable estate comprising holdings in real estate and in San Francisco, the principal part of which he has willed to the near members of his family. A native of New Brunswick, where he spent the better part of his boyhood, the deceased was 75 years of age.

FARMERS PLAN A BIG BOND ELECTION

MARYSVILLE, Aug. 5.—Considerable interest has been aroused through the Contra Costa county by a meeting for some time held at San Pablo early next week, which representatives and members of the Good Roads Committee of this county will formulate plans for the holding of a $100,000 bond election, to be used in improving the roads.

Many of the most prominent ranchmen and landowners in Contra Costa county are interested in the movement for good roads and are already canvassing among their neighbors in the interests of the bond election. The proposed election will be in the sum of $100,000, and those who are advocating the issuance of bonds are certain that the interest on the same will amount to more than 10 cents per capita each year.

The many miles of roads in Contra Costa county are very much in need of repair, and agitation for their improvement has been strong for some time. The majority of property owners in the county are in favor of the issuance of the bonds, and it is practically assured that the election will be held in the near future.

DR. BURDETTE MUST STAY IN PLASTER CAST

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 5.—Dr. Robert J. Burdette, the noted humorist and Burdette preacher, who is seriously ill as the result of an injury to the spine sustained in a fall last March, was placed in a plaster cast today. His spinal cord has become affected by the severe concussion produced by the fall and the physician's attendance says that his body must be held rigid for several months.

15 CENT TAX RATE IS NEEDED FOR HIGH SCHOOL

ALAMEDA, Aug. 5.—The tax rate necessary to build the high school was discussed at the regular meeting of the Board of Education, and President D. L. Randall, Secretary Will C. Wood and the board will notify the Board of Supervisors that a tax of 15 cents on every $100 is the amount needed to cover the expenses entailed by the school. This tax will be levied on the Alameda school district, which is practically the same as that levied last year.

California Oil Production.

If subsequent events confirm the report that an East Richmond oil company has tapped a large natural reservoir of petroleum just north of the Alameda county line in Contra Costa county, it will be one of the most important as well as the most sensational mineral discoveries ever made in the neighborhood of San Francisco bay, and it will start the exploration of the new field on an extensive scale.

Petroleum has developed during the last seven years into the most valuable of all of California's mineral productions. This State has for several years led all other oil-producing States in the volume and value of its petroleum output. The latter is increasing yearly at a rapid rate, and well-owners are getting better prices for their product than they have done at any time in the past history of the industry. According to the report of the State Mineralogist for 1908, there were then eight counties producing petroleum, Kern leading with an output of 18,777,871 barrels, valued at $9,388,935; Fresno following with 10,725,389 barrels, valued at $5,898,964, and Santa Barbara making a close third with an output of 8,847,589 barrels, valued at $4,423,794. The other oil-producing counties are Los Angeles, Orange, Ventura, Santa Clara and San Luis Obispo. If the discovery in the East Richmond district is genuine, Contra Costa county will figure in the list this year and possibly Alameda county, as the location of the reported discovery is so near to the county line as to give rise to the hope that the oil-bearing measure will be found to extend across it to the south.

How the industry has grown in the past seven years is shown by the statement that in 1901 the total output for the entire State was 7,710,315 barrels. In 1902 it nearly doubled with a record of 14,556,910. Since, it has been increasing at a rate varying from 5,000,000 to 10,000,000 barrels annually, except during the year 1906, when it fell off nearly 2,000,000 barrels, owing to the reduction of consumption caused by the San Francisco calamity of that year. Last year, however, the output reached the enormous volume of 48,306,910 barrels, which was valued, with its associated commercial products, at $28,232,959, the crude petroleum alone being valued at $26,566,181. That the industry is profitable to those engaged in it is shown by the fact that during last month twenty-nine companies paid to stockholders in dividends a total of $411,566.

When ark dwellers who add nothing to the available assets of a municipality kick against the utilization of the water front of a navigable tidal canal, as the dwellers in Arkville, Alameda, are making against the industrial occupation of the shoreline of the canal joining Oakland harbor and San Leandro bay, it is fitting that a vigorous response should be made by the Alameda City Council in the form of a speedy eviction from the premises. To all intents the ark dwellers on that navigable waterway are nothing more nor less than squatters, who have been infesting the harbor water front for a quarter of a century and when "moved off" by the owners of one section of the water frontage to make way for commercial improvements have simply located on some other piece of unimproved water frontage without "asking leave." They established themselves on the banks of the tidal canal, on the government strip, because they assumed they would not be disturbed, on the presumption that commerce would not demand its use. Now that commerce makes the demand they are offering resistance to removal from territory to which they have no right, either in law or equity, but which they have occupied for many years past, solely by sufferance. Doubtless, the Alameda Council, to which body Colonel Biddle has referred the matter, will cause them to move through compulsion, if they do not move voluntarily. Driving piles into the ground as a foundation for their ark has given them no right or equity in the land on which they have squatted.

War between Turkey and Greece is imminent because Greece has violated her compact, and the four great powers that virtually assumed a protectorate over the island of Crete have thus far declined to enforce the agreement. A great majority of the inhabitants of Crete are Greeks, but the island is, nominally at least, a fief of the Turkish empire. There is perpetual conflict between the Mohammedans and Christians in Crete, and these religious and racial conflicts have kept the island in a state of turmoil and has more than once deluged it in blood. If Turkey should send an army to enforce her authority over the Christian population there would undoubtedly be a repetition of the atrocities which shocked the civilized world two generations ago. The Christian powers should exert their authority to prevent another war between Greece and Turkey, neither of which is in a position to resist a united demand of the great nations. Unfortunately, however, the powers are jealous of each other and more intent on furthering their individual interests than in preserving peace or settling the perpetual dispute as to who shall rule Crete.

A Philadelphia woolen manufacturer files a singular protest against the woolen schedule of the Aldrich-Payne tariff bill. He says that prior to the last election a representative of the woolen manufacturers conferred with Speaker Cannon and other Republican Congressmen regarding tariff revision and were assured that no change would be made in the woolen schedule; on that understanding, he says, the manufacturers made large contributions to the Republican campaign fund. Hence he charges that the reductions in the woolen schedule are a breach of faith—a violation of contract, as it were. Apparently this gentleman considers tariff making a matter of campaign contributions and private understandings. He represents the type of manufacturer who have always regarded the protective tariff as a license to plunder—thus, in a measure, justifying the Democratic claim that it is a scheme of robbery.

The City Council of Alameda has taken steps toward compelling owners of property to repair their sidewalks and they have been notified that unless they respond promptly the work will be done by the city and charged to the property. The Board of Public Works in this city passed a similar resolution some time ago, but some how it has been allowed to lapse into innocuous desuetude. At all events there has been but little if anything done by property owners toward repairing broken sidewalks since the order was passed and the street department has taken no action in the matter. It is time for some one to get "a move on." Broken sidewalks are a discredit to any city, particularly one professing to be progressive.

The high character of the improvements which are being made to private grounds adjacent to Oakland's public parks and boulevards is rapidly converting a large area of Oakland's new residential districts into beautiful private extensions of the municipality's pleasure drives and parked areas.

Popular appreciation of Oakland's parks is demonstrated by the great number of people who flock to them.

Readjusting County Valuations.

The State Board of Equalization has announced its intention to readjust the county valuations throughout the State for purposes of State taxation on the basis of 60 per cent of the full cash value of the property and gives warning that most of the county valuations will be raised. When the State Board sought the assistance of the Real Estate Associations organized in various counties to appraise for its benefit a list of specially selected properties at their market value, it was naturally supposed that the information thus obtained would be used for the purposes of adjustment. In some counties the aid solicited was given; in others, the real estate dealers' associations notified the State Board of their inability to comply with its request, because the work mapped out for them involved more time and labor than they could afford to give. In explanation of the intention to raise the assessed valuations in most of the counties, the State Board declares that county assessors have been more often assessing on a 50 per cent and sometimes on a 30 per cent basis. If the State Equalizers do their work fairly and impartially and without discriminating for or against certain counties, as has been frequently done in the past, as we presume they will, we may expect an equitable adjustment which, while it may increase materially some total county valuations, it would result, also, in a material reduction in the State rate of taxation as compared with that imposed in past years which will offset the increase in the valuation.

Really Men's Convention

Oakland real estate men take pride, as well they may do, in the fact that they have financed the coming convention of the California State Realty Federation without soliciting the contribution of one dollar from any one outside of their special line of business. The finance committee of the local Real Estate Dealers' Association could have collected thousands of dollars from those engaged in other lines of business, but they preferred to entertain the visiting delegates to their convention with their money and there is not the slightest reason to doubt but what they will do it right handsomely. The Oakland realty men are a wide-awake, pushing and hustling class, brimful of local pride and go-aheadness, and they mean to afford the delegates to the three days' convention from other communities all the opportunities of inspecting the attractions of Oakland and its environs during their stay here. "If it results in convincing some of the real estate men from other parts of the State that Oakland is a promising field in which to operate and in inducing them to locate and go into business here, we have no objection, but will heartily welcome them, as a good thing all round," is the broad-gauge sentiment which one of the most enthusiastic promoters of the coming convention recently expressed.

The members of the Oakland Real Estate Dealers' Association are looking forward to the coming convention, which will open next Wednesday, with the greatest faith in the benefits which will accrue to this city at large from it. They intend that every delegate in attendance coming from other parts of the State shall have a more complete and correct idea regarding Oakland and its suburbs and the great opportunities which they present for the investment of capital, for home-making and settlement and for engagement in industrial and commercial pursuits, and that in a way which make it impossible for these specialists in the realty business to be other than friendly heretofore to Oakland's future development in whatever part of the State their own business interests may at present be centered.

The Bulletin is horrified that the Business Men's Republican League should extend the hand of fellowship to Billy Bell and Jerry Lucey. It professes to regard the presence of these men in the party fold as damning evidence of sinister design. But the presence of Martin Kelly, Ed Piccus, Billy Otts and Dick Creighton in the reform ranks gives the Bulletin no concern. The good faith of these tried and true (and thrifty) patriots is beyond question compared to that of Billy Bell and Jerry Lucey. It may be urged that the Bulletin is straining at gnats after swallowing a whole herd of camels, but Martin Kelly is no camel and Billy Bell is not exactly a gnat. The Bulletin is more knave than reformer, as everybody knows.

The farmers of Contra Costa county have now fallen in line in the good roads movement, and in order to get them in their own county they are willing to mortgage their farms to the extent of $100,000. The campaign is on. The Good Roads Committee, which represents many of the most prominent farmers and land owners in the county, will hold a meeting at San Pablo next week to formulate plans for the holding of a $100,000 bond election to raise money for county road improvements.

Over twenty thousand San Franciscans crossed the bay last Sunday to visit Oakland. When they left San Francisco it was wrapped in a raw fog bank. When they reached Oakland they found it bathing in the warm sunshine, with not the remotest suggestion of fog. When they returned to their homes they still found the city on the west side of the bay enveloped in a fog bank and a raw breeze adding to their discomfort.

The sidewalks and stores throughout Oakland's extensive shopping district present a bright and bustling scene these charming midsummer days. Thousands of handsomely dressed women promenade through the district and crowd the stores to make their purchases and keep the clerks hustling to attend to their wants.

Miss May Sutton's recent engagement to Harry E. Ham, son of a City of Mexico banker, seems to have been one of that fleeting summer outing kind, which are contracted at the fashionable resorts during the brief vacation season to be broken as soon as the principals return to their homes.

San Diego county has voted to issue $1,250,000 bonds for road construction. Yet with the evidence of the value of good roads before their eyes, some people in Alameda county whine about the cost of building modern highways.

Mr. Bryan rises to remark that the tariff bill is a violation of promises made to the people. He still clings to the delusion that Taft and the Republican Congress were elected on the Denver platform.

Every line in THE TRIBUNE'S classified ad pages today is full of interesting and valuable information. It will not pay any reader to overlook them.

Since hides have been put on the free list the cattle raisers are disposed to regard tariff revision as a skin game.

GOOD ART But Not Truth About FISHING

There is an exhibition in an art store in this city a very beautiful and doubtless high priced oil painting representing a brook trout in the act of seizing a fisherman's fly, said one who is an artist with the rod and fly. "The angler has cast his fly on the troubled surface of a swift rapid, which in nature would have swept the light feathered hook down stream so quickly that the line and leader would instantly have been held taut. In the picture, however, the leader is represented as lying on the water in a careless loop above the spot on which the fly is dropped, while the fly defies the velocity of the current and seems really to have floated upstream, to be handy for a trout which has leaped clear of the water and is poised in graceful curve as it prepares to swoop down on the patient and obiding fly like a hawk pouncing down on a chicken."

"Many people stop before this painting and admire the art of it in depicting the manner in which a trout goes for a fly. If any of them have remarked that if the artist who painted the picture ever saw a trout rise to a fly in that way and failed to capture it he made the mistake of his life I haven't heard them. But somebody ought to, for the artist certainly did make a mistake in not capturing any trout he saw taking a fly like that. It would be a curiosity worth being stuffed and mounted."

"The real every day trout of the rippling pool doesn't play the part of a hawk in taking his prey; nor does the artificial fly anchor itself on the surface of swift-moving waters to be pounced upon. The trout rises to the fly from the bottom of the water, rushing upward like a rocket. He takes it with a swoop and a whisk from beneath, and if he shows himself at all it is when he turns to go back to his haunt at the bottom. A brook trout can see instantly through all the depth of water he may be lying in and an added thickness of five or six inches of thick foam on the surface, the fly when it drops on the crust of that foam, and he has it almost as quickly as it drops, so it is scarcely necessary for him to take the air and look around below him to see if there is a fly waiting for him there. But that certainly is a very beautiful picture."—New York Sun.

Cuba Must Work Out Its Own Salvation

The United States cannot go on indefinitely saving the Cubans from outsiders and from themselves. This policy would be quixotic as well as costly. It would make the United States the best of the world. The next time that anything compels us to step into the island we must stay in. Annexation is inevitable.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Leave the Cubans alone, by all means, and let them work out their own salvation. All that America can now demand is that Cuba pay some share of Cuba's debts, and keep clean enough to avoid being a pest spot at America's threshold. Cuba has come to be a tiresome, dirty, immoral, irresponsible nuisance. It is nicer not to handle it at all.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

It seems almost impossible for the present liberal government in Cuba to escape eventual bankruptcy. Such a condition when it reached the point of compelling the discharge of the army of parasites who now fatten on public office will produce fresh revolutionary movements and renewed intervention. This possibility of intervention is the most disquieting feature of the situation, because it is well understood that should a fresh invasion of Cuba by American troops become necessary the annexation of the island will be imminent.—New Orleans Picayune.

The people of the United States are not going to lose sleep over the report that Cuba contemplates war with this government when a good opportunity occurs. Cuba naturally will make trouble whenever the chance for doing so arises. It is the way of that people. Spain got well rid of them, and probably appreciates that fact by this time.—Buffalo Commercial.

Cuba should be left to its own resources to work out its destiny in its own way unless some unforeseen necessity should force Uncle Sam to take a hand once more.—Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

Cuba should get this through her hot head. It is better for this country to check ruthless extravagance before it has run its course than later to remedy the inevitable consequences. It is up to Cuba.—Detroit Free Press.

Affairs in Cuba are unsettled, and it may be necessary for the United States to send another army of occupation to the island. Yet this country cannot go on indefinitely saving Cuba from outsiders and from her own people. The next time that anything compels us to step into the island it might be well to stay there. Annexation is inevitable in any case. The role of benevolent guardian has about ended.—Los Angeles Times.

That the hunger for land is still far from being satisfied is shown by the rush of homeseekers to the registry office in Kallispell, Mont., filing applications for homesteads in the Flathead Indian reservation. There are thousands more applicants than there are homesteads, and municipal sleeping quarters have been opened to accommodate the crowds.

The evidences are strong and practical that the modern inventions greatly benefit the farmer—leaving out the automobile, perhaps, to which he is not yet reconciled. But the telephone and the trolleys give him access to and use of the nearest markets that he never enjoyed before; and a poor farmer is he who cannot keep in touch with the markets now.—Buffalo Commercial.

A news item stating that Guatemala is considering putting her monetary system on a gold basis recalls a poker story about four players with $1,000,000 (Guatemalan) in the pot, which the winner exchanged for $400 (American gold), but it took him four days to do it. As $100 gold was all the money changer would part with at a time.

The banana, a product exclusively of tropical countries, has come to be an important article of commerce and valuable for food, although comparatively a short time ago the fruit was almost unknown in this country. And the banana is sharing the experience which comes to other products. The business of importing has been overdone, and in some parts of the United States bananas are a drug in the market. But as a rule it may be said that when a food article is overabundant there is some compensation in the resulting cheapness.—Troy Times.

Philadelphia is jealous of New York's multiplied tunnels and rapid transit facilities, and the Press of that city is becoming anxious as to the fate of the Delaware River tunnel proposition, at the same time bemoaning the fact that the Market street subway, while a brave beginning, has no followers in sight.

"I spoke on a wireless telephone forty years ago," said a man at a gathering where modern inventions were being discussed, says a New York letter, and at once all conversation ceased and the man was asked to explain. "I was a boy of 16," he said, "and across the street from our house lived a girl with whom I never tired of talking. I rigged up a means of communication with a piece of stout twine from the third floor front of our house to a window on the corresponding floor opposite. The line had at each end an empty spice box, to the bottom of which it was made fast. These were transmitter and receiver and we used to sit for hours talking nonsense on that line. If you don't believe it ask my wife; she is the girl."

The young King of Portugal took command of a regiment of dragoons lately, when it marched to the parade ground at Lisbon to receive a new stand of colors, and was a conspicuous figure among the kneeling officers during the ceremony which was performed by the priests. Describing the picturesque scene, a writer in a Paris paper says: "The boy king, Manuel, is unusually pious and never misses an opportunity to show this side of his character to his people. Since he has come to the throne the church has received unusual attention and the people have become accustomed to the prominence of church dignitaries at all functions, and they know that it is Manuel's desire that on all occasions where the people assemble the representatives of the church should be conspicuous."

Lotte-les, which Premier Clemenceau proposed to suppress in France, bring a handsome revenue into the coffers of many European States. Italy, which derives from this source close on to fifteen million dollars a year, is not likely to follow the example set by France, although many Italians have exposed the "wile wrought" by State gambling. Spain makes nearly seven million dollars a year out of its lotteries; and most other European countries, with the exception of Great Britain, draw annual revenues from this source. Even Germany does not disdain this form of income. The profits of the Prussian State lotteries last year amounted to nearly two millions.

Geneva, Switzerland, which has just been celebrating in honor of John Calvin, has the distinction of lending its name to the great international society of waiters known as the Geneva Union. The headquarters of the society are in Geneva, but branches flourish in all of the big hotel cities of the civilized world. The aim of the Geneva Union is to organize all classes of waiters with a view to making their lot as happy as possible. It opens up to members special facilities for traveling, for learning languages for gaining a knowledge of their duties, and generally looks after their interests.

Importance of China as an American Market

There is no sentiment in this matter. We want to get all the trade that is coming to us. We expect to make the benefits reciprocal, but we want that trade and we expect China to let us invest our money there in ways which will at least give us a voice in the great foreign commerce of the empire. The present concession is only an opening wedge. Young men with commercial ambitions ought to get ready to go to that section of the world, which is to show such enormous development.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

The United States has had a single policy in the Pacific in the maintenance of the territorial integrity of China. The United States, it is proper to state, had this in mind from the date of her first relations with China, and which was emphasized by the Burlingame mission. Now that the United States seeks the development of her commerce in the Pacific, in her possessions, the Philip-pinas, she looks to China as a field, a friendly field, for her economical expansion.—Boston Globe.

China promises that Americans shall have participation in the $27,000,000 loan about to be negotiated. That means holding the door open.—Troy Times.

The President has a Chinese policy. It is to leave nothing undone to strengthen American influence in that country and to develop there the largest possible market for American products. The insistence of the State Department on American bankers being allowed to participate in a Chinese railway loan means much more than a desire to secure for these bankers a small and not extremely profitable investment. It means that the administration will neglect no opportunity to make American influence felt in China.—Chicago Tribune.

The United States government has but to show a vigorous front in dealing with the European Powers to force recognition of its status as a world factor. No sophistry can obscure the fact that the United States has serious interests in the Far East and a right to a voice in the determination of affairs which are open to foreign influence. Its traditional position regarding China entitles it to consideration on an even plane with any other Power, and it is unthinkable that this country should be squeezed out of any combination exercising an influence at Peking.—Washington Star.

It is a sure as fate that the destinies of this world are to be ruled by China, Russia and the United States. And we are among those who believe that it will be for the world's good. Devil Fishing Is the Latest on The Pacific Coast

VICTORIA, B. C.—A new industry offers for the fishermen of British Columbia—the pursuit of devil fish, otherwise octopus, or cuttle fish. Japanese say there is a market in their country for canned devil fish, and in British Columbia waters there are devil fish to catch. The public on this side of the Pacific does not generally regard the devil fish as edible, but in Japan it is esteemed as a food, and while it is not rated as fine a delicacy as green turtle or lobster, the flavor is said to equal that of the clam.

The octopus hunts for a sheltering cave or an overhanging rock, where it lies in wait for prey. It abhors the sunlight. The Japanese fishermen simply provide a shady retreat for the octopus, and when it backs into the trap, it is hauled to the surface.

The pursuers of the octopus provide themselves with large earthen pans more than a foot in diameter, which are fastened to a rope and lowered into the sea. When the devil fish comes looking for a place to ambush its enemy the earthen jar appears to fulfill its needs. Backing into the jar the octopus permits its tentacles to wave about like seaweed. Half concealed it appears to be as harmless as a bunch of kelp, but when a fish comes along there is a swish of the long arms and the victim is held by the suckers and forced into the rapacious maw.

The fisherman simply sets his traps, returns the next day and pulls them to the surface and removes the octopus from its hiding place.—New York Sun.

His Fad Is Collecting Up Old Passports

There is one man in this city who has an odd fad, which is apparently the collecting of seals of the Department of State. He does not often go abroad, in fact he has been on the other side probably no more than four times in the course of his life, and he now is around 60. But for about twenty years he has been in the habit of applying annually for a passport. He writes to the Department of State, gets an application blank and has it filled out. He goes to the same notary every time and pays the fee. Then he sends his application and the passport fee to the department and gets his passport back in due course.

Passports are valid for two years without renewal, yet he never misses a year and he fills out a new application every time. Thus he has a collection of papers and seals running back over these years. He never had occasion to use a passport when abroad, but he says it has been a help to him when traveling in this country as a means of identification when that has become necessary in some city in which he was a stranger. The chief idea he has is that some time it might be imperative for him to leave for a foreign country on some business or other and having the passport he would not have to delay for it.

Some Truths About Polar Expeditions

With painful regularity each Polar exploring expedition is followed in due course of time by a relief expedition, sent out to discover the explorer and minister to his needs, which are frequently pretty grave by the time he is found. In such cases, however, it is necessary that he leave some clue to the line of adventure that he purposes to follow.

This Perry did, and a relief or rescue expedition is now on its trial, but it has announced that it does not propose to make any special effort to find Dr. Cook, Stevens, Ruman and Wainwright, the unknown without sharing the details of his purpose with any one. But Dr. Cook is a scientist of value. He has done good geographical work in Alaska, and even though he has had the temerity to start out on a still hunt for the Pole that should not put him outside the pale of human success, if that is possible. He has been in the Arctic for about two years, and when last heard from his situation was far from enviable. By the way, what has become of the rescue party that Admiral Schley was endeavoring to organize in his behalf last March? —Boston Transcript.

MILITARY DRILL IN CURRICULUM

Pupils of Lockwood School to Have Compulsory Army Training

PITCHBURG, Aug. 5.—An innovation has been introduced into the curriculum of the Lockwood grammar school in this city. A military drill has been added to the list of studies and the pupils are now required to do as satisfactory work in this branch as in arithmetic, geography or spelling.

The new feature of the school work, however, involves the girls as well as the boys and it is a singular fact that the former are surpassing their brothers in this branch of education. Most of the captains of companies in the school are girls and they have earned their way to this distinction. The staff of officers of the grammar school army is also largely made up of girls.

Daily Lessons

The new department of learning has been created by Prof. C. H. Greenman, principal of the school, who is skilled in military drill and maneuvers. The army drills every day for a period of half an hour and time is kept to the minute. The curriculum of the school, composed of thirty pieces, the only band representing a grammar school on this coast. Prof. Greenman is director of the band as well as commander of the army.

The Lockwood school opened Monday and competitive drill decided the ranking of the officers. Instruction in drill was given the pupils at the end of last term, so that they would be prepared to enter their duties as officers in the new school army at the beginning of the new school year.

Interesting Spectacle

The sight of 600 pupils in military array on the streets of Pitchburg, orders being shouted at the privates by the girls of the fifth and sixth grades, as well as by their sisters in the higher grades, is one that can be seen daily in the vicinity of the school.

Prof. Greenman, speaking about the new department, said: "I regard the military training as an important factor in education and I do not think that it is any more necessary for the school boys than the girls. Our girls are making good officers and are taking up the drills and maneuvers with great enthusiasm."

ANNEXATION IS PETITION THEME

Elmhurst Wants the Territory Between Oakland and San Leandro

ELMHURST, Aug. 5.—A petition is being signed by a large number of the residents of this place, asking that the territory between the San Leandro line and Twenty-sixth avenue in East Oakland be annexed to the City of Oakland. Similar petitions are being signed by residents of Pitchburg, Alameda, Highland and Fruitvale and it is thought that annexation will soon be a reality.

The perfection of the sewer systems and the roads is being used as a strong argument in favor of annexation. The matter has come up before on a number of occasions, but annexation has never met with such general approval in the outlying towns as at present.

There is a large number of residents that desire to incorporate these communities between San Leandro and Oakland as a separate city and the division at this point is working badly for the cause of annexation with Oakland. It is the general feeling, however, that the towns should all be joined under a common government and it is thought that this condition will soon exist.

Decoto News Items

DECOTO, Aug. 5.—Mrs. Zina Dumont of San Leandro is in town, the guest of Miss Jessie Decker. Miss Emily Mitchell returned to her home in Oakland Friday evening after a two day visit. The Henry Meyer family have returned to their home in Oakland, where the children will resume their studies. Miss Margaret Jolin, a former Southern Pacific employee, came up from Oakland Saturday to attend the dance given by the school at the home of Mrs. Jolin.

The Band Boys' dance Saturday evening at Silva's hall was a large success. Large numbers from the surrounding towns being present. The hall was crowded to its fullest capacity, and all enjoyed the affair to the utmost. Ice cream, cake and coffee were served, and the proceeds from these tributes were used as well as the door receipts, netted a good round sum for the band boys.

BELL REFUSES FEES FOR RAISING POLL TAX

VALLEJO, Aug. 5.—As his answer to the criticism of banks and corporations of Napa county, whose assessments he has caused to be raised, Theodore A. Bell, the attorney, has sent to the Napa county board of Supervisors a receipted bill for $1 for his services. Bell was to have received from the county 25 per cent of the miles in taxes which he effected. By his campaign $40,000 has been added to the county tax.

The corporations forced by the lawyer to pay higher taxes used Bell's argument with the county officials as an instrument with which to attack him. His action yesterday has stopped all hostile comment.

ARE CITY PUPILS BEHIND COUNTY?

Elmhurst School Principal Criticizes Curriculums of Two Cities

ELMHURST, Aug. 5.—"With the opening of school this term, we are presented with a peculiar situation and one that is surprising," said Principal W. D. Spencer yesterday. "A large number of pupils have come into the Elmhurst school from the cities of Oakland and Alameda, where the school departments are considered of a high class, and in nearly every case we have had to put the pupil from these places in a grade lower than his recommendation called for."

"It is my belief," continued the principal, "that the large city school departments are devoting too much time to music, botany, elementary horticulture and other outside branches of study, than upon the elements that go to make up a grammar school education. The pupils, I find, are rather at a loss in the good, substantial subjects of arithmetic and history. It is to gain a knowledge of these subjects that they go to school and a sacrifice must be made of those for the study of what is now considered more modern grammar school studies, it seems to me that the education of the student is lost and he has not gained his purpose."

This total number of pupils enrolled in the Elmhurst school is 400, a substantial increase over last year.

RETURN TO OLD HOME A SAD ONE

Mother Dies Before Henry Z. Jones of This City Reaches England

Accompanied by Joseph Westall, who is in poor health; Henry Z. Jones, well known capitalist and real estate dealer, with offices in this city and residence at the corner of Dutton avenue and San Leandro road, has returned from a trip to England.

Jones departed from here in May with the hope of again seeing his mother, who was very ill in England, but a few days after he had sailed from New York a cablegram reached his wife in this city announcing that his mother had died. In consequence of the death of his mother before he could reach her bedside, the return to his former home in the old country was a sad one. Added to this was the illness of Mr. Westall, which developed after the latter reached London. His desire to return here caused Jones to cut short his visit abroad.

HEART--TRIBUNE'S PAGE FOR WOMEN--HOME

IN SOCIETY

Miss Alta Countryman one of the most popular girls of the younger set, announced her engagement today to Ward Blackman, a young mining engineer of the southern part of the state.

The secret was made known to a score of girl friends who gathered at the Countryman abode on Chetwood street "to meet Miss Pearl Butler of Denver."

The house was beautifully decorated in roses and carnations, artistically arranged.

Before was the division of the afternoon and when the prizes were distributed, enclosed in one of them, a pretty card case, were two cards bearing the names of Miss Countryman and Mr. Blackman.

Of course the fair hostess was showered with good wishes and congratulations. She is a popular girl and possesses a sweet and charming manner that endears her to all who know her.

She looked very pretty this afternoon in an elaborate gown of blue messaline with a white lace collar and cuffs.

Miss Butler, her guest, wore a stunning costume of pale blue chiffon made over blue silk.

Among those who shared the pleasures of this enjoyable affair were, besides the hostess and Miss Butler, Miss Daisy Seuberg, Miss Sadie Drunkwater, Mrs. Carl Seuberg, Miss Clara Gahney, Miss Sybil Tripp, Miss Mattie Alexander, Mrs. Carl Conrad, Miss Mary Waddell, Miss Gusie Melman, Mrs. Rollin Cox, Mrs. L. L. Warner, Miss Frances Champion and several others.

The date for the wedding has not been set, but it will be an event of the late fall.

A PRETTY WEDDING.

Miss Ethel H. Anderson became the bride of Clifford Anderson on Tuesday evening at one of the prettiest weddings of the season.

The bride is a popular Oakland girl, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Anderson of sixteenth street. She is musically gifted and popular among the members of the younger set. The groom has a host of friends in this city and is prominent in local business circles.

The bride's wedding dress was of sheer mull, becomingly made. She wore the conventional veil and carried a slender bouquet of white carnations.

Her only attendant was her little sister, Fern, who also wore white.

The home was artistically decorated in pink carnations and ferns and the service was read by the Rev. Poole of the Methodist Episcopal Church in the presence of about thirty-five guests.

After the ceremony an elaborate supper was served and the young couple left later in the evening for a honeymoon trip. In a week or so they will take up their residence in a pretty villa at Mill Valley, and will not return to Oakland for about three months.

TO BE GUEST AT TEA.

Miss Elizabeth Price, a sweet singer, popular in social circles in all the bay cities, returned Sunday from a delightful outing at Mill Valley, Placer county. On Monday she sang at the opening of the California Conservatory of Music and was given an enthusiastic reception.

Her mother, Mrs. M. Price has returned from San Jose, where she spent the past six weeks, the guest of friends, and was extensively entertained.

Early next week Mrs. D. I. Bartholomew plans to give an informal tea in honor of Miss Price, the guest list to include a score or more of local musical people.

BACK FROM SUMMER HOME.

Mrs. Hugh Hogan and family have returned from San Jose, where they have spent the past two months in their pretty bungalow, where everything is arranged for the comfort and enjoyment of the family and the guests whom they so frequently entertain. Mrs. Hogan plans to be back in town and her presence is always an impetus to our social life, for she is a great favorite.

Miss Ella Hogan spent the early part of the summer in the Yosemite, going to San Jose for a fortnight or so on her return from the world-famed valley.

LUNCHEON AND MATINEE.

Mrs. A. C. Dillert and her daughter, Mrs. William E. Hesse, are asking friends to be their guests at an informal luncheon on Saturday.

The guests will meet at the Dillert home on Myrtle street and after the luncheon will enjoy the afternoon at one of the local theaters. Mrs. Hesse was formerly Miss Olive Dillert and is one of the many young matrons who have enjoyed a visit among the home folk this summer.

IN SANTA ROSA.

Mrs. George Faulkner is spending a few delightful days in Santa Rosa, the guest of friends. Last week, Mrs. Faulkner visited in Los Gatos and was entertained at several informal affairs.

She is popular in local musical and social circles and frequently entertains, asking a few congenial friends at a time and one is always assured of some good music when Mrs. Faulkner is hostess.

IN PETALUMA.

Mrs. Marie Lazarus, a popular student of the University of California, is the guest of friends in Petaluma, where she is being entertained hospitably at numerous informal affairs.

A RECENT TRIP.

Miss Lillian Decleston, who went to Los Gatos recently for a short visit, has returned to Oakland. Miss Decleston is one of the most popular girls of the local mart set.

TO RETURN TO OAKLAND.

Mrs. Hugo Abrahamson and her two children, Helen and Jack Abrahamson, will return to their home in this city on Sunday, after a delightful visit in Santa Barbara.

Mr. Abrahamson has been spending

MISS ELIZABETH PRICE, Who Will Be Guest at a Tea.

several weeks in New York combining business with pleasure. During the family's absence their Alhambra street residence has been occupied by the Henry Abrahams, of San Francisco.

IN HONOR OF VISITORS.

Mrs. Arthur L. Duncan was hostess yesterday at a large tea given at her beautiful home in Fruitvale in honor of Mrs. H. O. Epistone of Kearney, Nebraska, and Mrs. Edwin Duncan, a recent bride, whose home is in Donipau, Missouri.

The Arthur L. Duncan abode, on Talbot street is one of the most attractive and artistically arranged of the many charming homes in the Fruitvale district and Mrs. Duncan is an ideal hostess and her friends are all interesting people, so that yesterday's affair was a most pleasant one.

Musical and a dainty repast were featured in the afternoon and the house was prettily decorated in pink roses and ferns.

Among those who contributed to the delightful musical program were Mrs. F. C. Weston, Miss E. D. Bain, Mrs. Howard Bray, Miss M. H. Bayley, Mrs. H. J. Maunhart, Miss E. H. Marwood, Miss M. W. D. Hays, Mrs. S. S. Smith, Miss L. R. Pollard, Mrs. J. T. Gannon, Miss Forbes, Miss Mattie Johnson, Miss Bertha Wadham, Mrs. H. A. Atkinson, Mrs. Noah Adams, Mrs. Henry Austin, Mrs. H. L. James, Mrs. Canina Burgermeister, Miss Mary Skiff, Mrs. Alred Skiff, Mrs. William Angus, Miss Violet Albright, Mrs. Stout.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED.

Mrs. Mary A. Barker of 2510 Ellsworth street, Berkeley, announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Margaret Barker, to Eadie Lang Cope of North Berkeley.

WITH STANFORD FRIENDS.

Miss Hazel Mount of Berkeley is spending a delightful month visiting Stanford friends. She has been entertaining at the Barnhart abode in Coyote, and during the past week or so at the home of Miss Grace Fleming in San Jose.

GUESTS FROM CHICO.

Miss Loretta McQuaid has as her house guests two charming girls from Chico, Miss Nellie Dooley and Miss Edna Johnson, for whom she is planning many pleasant outings and informal affairs.

IN THE NEW HOME.

Mr. and Mrs. Almond Alfred Rowe have sent out cards for Sunday evening next when they will entertain at their beautiful new home in Encina place, Claremont Park.

The Rows formerly resided in San Francisco, but have made many friends since coming to this side of the bay. Their new residence is just completed and Sunday's reception will be the first affair given by Mr. and Mrs. Rowe since their occupancy of their spacious home.

GUEST FROM EXETER.

Miss Hazel Heat of Exeter, Tulare county, is the guest of Miss Mae Osborne at the latter's home in Alameda and her visit is being made pleasant by many pretty affairs planned in her honor. On Saturday Miss Osborne will give a tea party to her guest. Wednesday afternoon Mrs. George H. Meyer of Redwood street was hostess at an informal card party for Miss Heat.

DELIGHTFUL AFFAIR.

Mrs. Eugene Hale Douglas, formerly Miss Gertrude Russell, returned to Marc

MISS FRICK WOULD NOT COME OUT IN NEW YORK

Refused the $3,000,000 House of the Vanderbilts

NEW YORK.—Miss Helen Frick is probably the only person in the world who ever refused to obey the dictation of her father, Henry Frick, the great millionaire, and get away with the proposition. He wanted a $3,000,000 house at No. 640 Fifth avenue, New York, paying $1,000,000 for a ten years' lease.

His plan was nothing more or less than that Miss Helen, his only daughter and ultimate heiress to half his $100,000,000, should make her social debut in New York.

And She Absolutely Refused

The Fricks moved to New York last winter. It was time at last for Miss Frick to make her debut. Mr. Frick himself broached the subject. Miss Frick looked dubious, but let her father talk on. Then she said a thing or two, and the burden of her words was this:

"I think it best to have my coming out party in Pittsburgh. I know so many people there, and they have always treated me so well."

Mr. Frick replied with considerable decision—no new thing for him. Miss Frick protested earnestly. Mr. Frick was obdurate.

"Your party will be held in New York, my child," said Mr. Frick, for a final decision.

Miss Frick went to the telephone that same afternoon and engaged a flatroom for herself and her mother for Pittsburgh, on the night express. Mrs. Frick and she opened Clayton and on December 1 issued invitations for her coming-out, set for December 15. And in the mails went one to Mr. Frick, with the pretty little note asking him personally to the party. Mr. Frick got his private car into commission right away, and on the appointed day he arrived in Pittsburgh, where he and the time his life launching his only daughter into the social whirl. It may be added, with all gentleness, that Mr. Frick had been outgeneralized, completely routed, not to say defied! The party had been held in Pittsburgh, in the old family home, rented from a New York millionaire for $1,000,000. "I want a park in Pittsburgh where poor children can play," she said, naming her pet project, "and not a rope of pearls or a diamond necklace," either of which could have been hers for the asking. Mr. Frick has given the park to Pittsburgh for his daughter's sake. It has 149 acres and will cost $500,000. A few years ago when Mr. Frick built the skyscraper in Pittsburgh, which has his name, it was reported that it was to be the property of his little daughter, Helen. "Wasn't it lovely of your papa to give you the biggest, finest building in the city for your very own?" asked a patsy. "I'd rather he built me a hospital for sick dogs and cats," was the dainty reply. On the other day, too, came the news that Miss Frick had rented a big park near her summer home in Massabesett where self-supporting girls may have summer vacations.

Sleuth So Busy He Forgets Bride

CHICAGO.—Charles L. Bowen, a private detective, has been so wrapped up in his search for an alleged wife deserter that he is said to have forgotten his own wedding day. When the sleuth walked breathlessly into the Harrison street court yesterday afternoon looking for the assistant state's attorney, he was arrested on a warrant charging wife abandonment.

Bowen was taken before Judge Newcomer, who presided at his marriage to Julia Bowen. Bowen's wedding, just Thursday. When Bowen saw the judge his jaw dropped and he appeared speechless. When searched a warrant for a William Shaw of Chicago, Ill., charging him with wife abandonment, was found in his pocket.

Further interest was added to the comedy when it was learned that while the court was testing the warrant to Mrs. Bowen Wednesday, Bowen was being discharged by Municipal Judge Park in the adjoining court room on a charge of carrying concealed weapons.

WHAT WOMEN ARE DOING

Miss Irene Marmelin of Jamaica Plain, Mass., was the first girl to read the Declaration of Independence in Faneuil Hall at Boston's formal celebration of the birth of our nation. Miss Marmelin is 15 years old, and is a pupil in the girls' Latin school. Hereafter a boy has been selected for this honor.

The students of Western College, Oxford, Ohio, have raised a scholarship fund of $6000 to be named in honor of Dean Mary A. Sawyer. The general endowment fund of Western College was increased this year by a legacy of $3000 left by Miss Eleanor Smith of Dayton, Ohio.

One hundred girls graduated from the Chestnut street grammar school in Springfield, Mass., were dressed at the commencement exercises made by themselves. The cost fell slightly under $2 each and the dresses were a demonstration of the practical results of their class in domestic science.

Mrs. Roberta Ware has founded a dairy school at Highland Lake, Norfolk, Mass. For the last five years Mrs. Ware has run a model dairy at Highland Lake, and this school is for the purpose of teaching her methods. The course is for six weeks and includes the study of soils, feed, cows, the arrangement and equipment of dairy buildings, the weighing, testing, bottling and transportation of milk, following the milk to market and the study of the consumer's facility for keeping it. Each pupil is required to attend the steam boiler, the sterilizer, the bottler and to take part in each other item of work. Among the pupils enrolled were Miss Mary McDermid, teacher of domestic science in the School of Domestic Science, Boston, and Mrs. Margaret Stannard, a teacher in the Garland Kindergarten School.

Mrs. Ann E. Gridley has resigned her place in the General Land Office after a service of nearly thirty years. Mrs. Gridley has just completed her eighty-third year. She gave valuable service during the last year of the Civil War, in which two of her sons served.

Mrs. Louise Ahlers, class of '82 Wellesley College, has been chosen general secretary of the Wellesley Alumnae Association. The office is a new one, being rendered necessary by the large membership of the association. Mrs. Ahlers has been for the last year or so connected with the college administration.

Mrs. M. M. Enos, a prominent Oaklander, was a recent guest in Santa Cruz. Mrs. F. M. Carter has returned from a visit of several weeks in Petaluma.

Mrs. Fred Perley has returned from a pleasant visit with her sister, Mrs. H. C. Wenta.

Mr. and Mrs. William Kruskel have enjoyed a delightful outing in Dunbar Oaks, where they had in attractive bungalow for the season.

Professors Rocket and Vohl have returned from a visit in Redwood City.

Mr. and Mrs. George Freeman have gone to Willows to reside.

Mrs. Mame Summers is enjoying a month's outing at Ockenden, in the mountains of Fresno county.

Miss Viola Chevelier has returned from a visit of two weeks in Sacramento.

Dr. M. M. Enos, a prominent Oaklander, was a recent guest in Santa Cruz.

Mrs. F. M. Carter has returned from a visit of several weeks in Petaluma.

Pens Sad Story of His Losing Pretty Bride, Finding Her Wife of Another

NEW YORK.—Young Jerome Wiley Decker of No. 249 West Twenty-fifth street, has written an account of the matrimonial entanglement brought before Magistrate Cornell in the Jefferson Market Court, yesterday morning, through the arrest of nineteen-year-old Irene Winfield Van Arsdale-Decker on a charge of bigamy. Decker's story in manuscript was presented to the world yesterday and, in part, follows:

"The elopement with his young bride of nineteen on July 10, 1908, has tended to make Jerome Wiley Decker one of the most remorseful looking youths in the city. His bride could not find contentment after their return from the honeymoon, and last Saturday abruptly left him to return to her former husband."

"The young couple were united in wedlock July 10 after a revival of their school days love affair. They went to Boston on their honeymoon and returned to New York a week later and happily secured a home at No. 255 West Twenty-fifth street."

"Immediately after the young wife began to grow despondent, going away without notice and forgetting to return home last Friday night. The anxious husband felt suspicious and followed her. Saturday evening, while wide awake, he found her at work, she lost little time locating husband No. 1, who turned out to be John Van Arsdale of No. 410 West Twenty-fifth street. After waiting a reasonable length of time Husband No. 2 (Decker) crept up stairs and quietly but firmly broke in the door."

Both husbands demanded explanation, to the great discomfort of the young wife. Credentials were shown by both husbands, and angry words came from each. Husband No. 2 left peacefully when his wife said she no longer loved him, but had returned to her first love. The story of the pretty young wife followed at an early hour in the morning. The girl had nothing to say to the Magistrate yesterday and the case was adjourned until this afternoon. Judge Van Arsdale told the police he married her four years ago and that they had been separated six months. He said he believed her to be mentally irresponsible. He will ask for a divorce.

"This love game is the limit," said Decker after the hearing.

Poor but Honest, Yet, She Would Wed

CLAYTON, Me.—Poetic Justice Worcester is looking for a poor, but honest man who is willing to marry a poor, but honest widow. He has received an anonymous letter, signed "A Widow," mailed in St. Louis, giving exact specifications of the ideal husband as one applicant has him painted in her visions.

The widow says she is 37 years old and has been a widow for five years, her husband, she is careful to explain, being dead. This removes all grassy suspicions.

The widow is five feet six inches and weighs 130 pounds. She says she is very thick-skinned. She has dark blue eyes and dark brown hair. She would look much younger than 37, she hints, if she could get her teeth fixed up.

"I have heard that you make matches for couples," writes "the widow." "I am poor and have to work all the time, so I have no chance to go out and find a husband. I want a man who is poor, like myself. I would like one with children, or an old gentleman, or young men, or dudes, only a plain working-man."

The justice says the successful candidate must have money enough to pay his bride's dental bill, anyhow.

Women in Trousers

The idea of a woman in trousers seems to be the most horrible that the modern civilized mind can conjure up, but there are parts of the world where women wear these garments as a matter of course and the heavens have not yet fallen. They even contrive to look charming in them, too, as in one of the cantons of Switzerland, where the beautiful garment is worn on dress occasions as well as for work. Not even at the altar are the trousers discarded. The bride wears white trousers, with a white bodice and white flowers in her hair, and many a bride in a court train is less shy and sweeter. In spite of their trousers, which are necessitated by the work that they do in the fields, these women do not ride to dance with supercilious dry skirts. French and Belgian actresses wear trousers. They trade through the water, pushing their nets before them, and the heavy waves would soon sweep him if he fell if they wore skirts. Even without them they are obliged to go out in little parties for mutual protection. In China, where they do most things differently from the rest of the world, the women wear trousers and men do not disdain skirts. The women also smoke frequently, and in Turkey, before Paris fashions invaded the harem, trousers were worn by the women, while the cigarette is an indispensable part of their lives.

Baby Born in a Massacre

NEW YORK, August 2.—Mrs. Herbert Adams Gibbons, wife of a missionary who was in the Adana-Taurus massacre spring during the slaughter last spring, returned yesterday on the Lusitania with her baby girl, Christine, who was born during the height of the disturbance.

Mrs. Gibbons was met by her mother, brother and sister's husband, who escorted her and her child to Hartford, her home. She left her husband in Paris studying at the Sorbonne. He had been called from the Sorbonne by Dr. Cristy, principal of St. Paul's Institute at Taurus, Asia Minor, and was a teacher in the school at the time of the massacres, which started on April 14.

On that day Mrs. Gibbons was in Adana. Mrs. Gibbons was in Taurus during the two outbreaks at that place. "After the slaughter in the district," said Mrs. Gibbons, "I saw 4000 refugees returned to the Turkish premises at Taurus. I saw the Muslim troops, who came to inspect, kill many persons and apply the torch to buildings."

It was during this excitement that the baby was born. Among the party returning with Mrs. Gibbons were Dr. G. P. Knapp, and Mrs. Knapp of Auburndale, Mass. They are stopped at Harport. All expressed the opinion that there is no certainty of security for the millions even under the rule of the Young-Turks.

Music That Makes a Song

Lady Laurie of Maxwellton House, Dumfries, Scotland, is dead in the home which was the birthplace of Annie Laurie, who was given to the immortals by the song written around her name. Annie Laurie was the daughter of the first baronet, and she was born in Maxwellton House in 1832. The words of the song were composed by a love-lorn youth named Douglas of England, and the music more than a century afterward by John Spotswood.

NEWARK WOMAN GIVES BIRTH TO 5 CHILDREN

NEW YORK.—Mrs. Thomas Benwick, thirty-three years old, of No. 726 Springfield avenue, Newark, gave birth yesterday morning to five children. Although all born prematurely, four of them, two boys and two girls, were alive and continued to live fifteen minutes. The mother will recover. She had previously had three normal children, all of whom are living.

Armenian Lullaby

If thou wilt shut thy drowsy eyes, My mulberry one, my golden sun! Thy rose shall sing thee lullabies, My pretty covelet lambkin! And thou shalt swing in an almond tree, With a flood of moonbeams rocking thee— A silver boat on a golden sea, My velvet love, my nestling love, My own pomegranate blossom! The stork shall guard thee passing well, All night, O sweet! my dimple feet! And bring the myrrh and aspidodel, My gentle-rain-of-springtime! And for thy slumberous play shall twine The diamond stars with an emerald vine, To trail in the waves of ruby wine, My myrtle bloom, my heart's perfume, My little chirping sparrow! And when the morn wakes up to see Thy apple bright, my soul's delight! Thy paradise shall come calling thee, Thy jar of milk-and-honey! Yes, thou shalt know what mystery lies In the anemeth deep of a crained sky, If thou wilt fold thy onyx eyes, O wakenful one, you naughty son, You cooing little lullaby.

LABORER MAKES BANK CASHIER HAND OUT CASH

After Alarm is Given Thug is Surrounded and Fights Until He's Slain

WHITE BEAR, Minn., Aug. 5.—Following a hold up on the First State Bank of this village today, Henry Paul, the robber, and Fred Larkens, one of the pursuing citizens, were shot and killed and William Butler, one of the posse, mortally wounded.

One of the men received a wound in the thigh and still another was shot through the wrist. The robber, who had been employed as a laborer for several days, received his check for $8 early today and when he went to the bank to get it cashed, Cashier Alfred Auger was the only man in the bank with rifles and a pump action.

Paul offered Auger the check and while the cashier was examining it, he drew a revolver. Following the robber's instructions the cashier passed out all the currency in the office, amounting to $500. Fought Until Dead

The robber fled through the village streets towards Bald Eagle Lake. Auger gave the alarm and in a few minutes an armed posse was in pursuit. The robber took refuge in a shed about two squares from the bank. When the posse drew near, opened fire. Larkens, who was leading the posse, went boldly into the shed. He dropped dead on the threshold with a bullet in his heart. This caused a halt among the pursuers, who retired to sheltered points and opened fire on the shed with rifles and revolvers.

The fire was returned by the robber, who in a few minutes fell, shot through the abdomen.

ROMANCE OF AGED MAN IS AT END

Alleged Relatives Who Thought to Claim Captain Dimond Are Disappointed

NORTH ABINGTON, Mass., Aug. 5.—The hopes entertained by Samuel and Joshua Dimond and their sister, Mrs. Sarah McKenney, of this town that they had discovered their long lost brother in the person of Captain Dimond Ezekiel Dudge Dimond, the grand old man of Oakland, California, who claims to be 113 years of age, were materially lessened today when a letter from Oakland was received by Postmaster Dexter Gross. The missive is from a postal employee, Frank P. Howland, 1212 Tenth street, Oakland, who denies that the name of the eminent Captain is "Dimond." It ends as follows: "His name is Dimond, and a suburb of Oakland is named after him. This claim is an absurdity on the part of the man who claims to be your captain, as we wish to preserve our 'show features' intact."

The Massachusetts Dimonds are not satisfied, however. They believe that their brother, Ezekiel Dudge Dimond, from whom they have not heard since the opening of the Civil War, at which time he was recruiting soldiers in the south, must be identical with the Oakland man. The names closely tally, although the Dimonds assert that the age of their missing relative is about ninety-eight, and surely not 113 years.

The next move by the Dimond family to settle the mooted question of relationship will be the forwarding of a letter to the Captain himself.

JEFFRIES SMILED A FINAL FAREWELL

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—James J. Jeffries, the pugilist, smiled a broad farewell to a crowd of well wishers that gathered on the North German Lloyd Line pier in Hoboken today and sailed on the steamship George Washington for a six weeks' sojourn in Europe. Jeffries and his wife will go direct to Carlsbad, where they will remain for a few days. The big Californian has been troubled recently with boils and hopes the waters at Carlsbad will aid him.

Sam Berger, Jeffries' manager, will leave for California next week and return here to receive bids for the Jeffries-Johnson fight.

Jack Johnson is expected here today or tomorrow and may talk over affairs with Berger.

EARTHQUAKE IN BREST
PARIS, Aug. 5.—An earthquake has been reported from Brest and the vicinity of that city. A number of buildings were rocked and the people thrown into a state of panic, but so far as is known the disturbance was not serious.

REVENGE AND NOT ROBBERY MOTIVE FOR MURDER OF LIVERMORE RANCHER?

Dead Man Is Known To Have Made Enemies Among His Employees

Whether or not robbery inspired the brutal murder of Manuel Garcia, the Contra Costa rancher, is a question that still remains in doubt in the minds of many people of Livermore who knew the dead man well and are familiar with his private affairs, and some of his immediate neighbors.

It is true that when the mutilated body of the Portuguese was taken from the cellar of the ranch house, about nine miles north of Livermore, by Deputy Coroner J. C. Reimers, the pockets of the trousers were found turned inside out, which in itself is good evidence of robbery; but the fact remains that no money or other valuables are known to have been in the possession of the victim at the time of the assassination.

A strange man was seen in the vicinity immediately prior to the murder, and it is only natural that those who believe in the robbery theory suspect him of the crime, and insist that the authorities should find him. All clues thus far traced by the Sheriff's office of Alameda county and Sheriff Veale of Contra Costa serve to substantiate the robbery theory, yet on the other hand they are confronted with the fact that Garcia was a hot-headed, irrational farmer and neighbor, that he had many enemies and that he was always quarreling with his hired help. He had the reputation of being an employer who would never live up to his agreement with his work hands and a rancher who did not believe in paying any debt that he could wriggle out of. For these reasons he could never keep a workman very long, nor did he have any financial standing in Livermore.

Those who scout at the robbery theory profess to believe that the rancher was murdered during a quarrel with some neighborhood enemy or by a workman with whom he refused to settle. They explain the incident of the trousers pockets by saying that the man or men who committed the deed purposely turned them inside out to bolster up the robbery theory and thereby divert suspicion from them. However all of this may be, the fact remains that whether the murder was the result of robbery or for some other reason the authorities find the crime as much of a mystery as they did when it first came to light. The body in company with Willie Pena, the boy, was told in THE TRIBUNE last evening by an old resident of Contra Costa county and well known in Livermore. He says that Garcia must have been slain by a robber, because he does not believe the dead man had any enemy so bitter against him that he would seek to destroy his life.

While looking over the ranch yesterday Deputy Sheriff Hanfland formed a very good idea of the manner in which Garcia was killed. Whenever the rancher went out on the range to round up his livestock he always rode a horse and carried his rifle with a slingshot. The evidence at the scene of the crime indicates that Garcia secured his rifle and started for the water trough with a bucket to water his horse before going on the round-up. He evidently set the rifle down to fill the pail and while his back was turned the murderer sprang

He says that Garcia must have been slain by a robber, because he does not believe the dead man had any enemy so bitter against him that he would seek to destroy his life.

Scene of Murder
S. Levi of Newman is the owner of the ranch upon which Garcia came to his tragic end. It consists of about 400 acres of rolling land, the greater part of it pasture, and Garcia had leased it for the last five years. He had several acres in vineyard and orchard, but the greater part of it was devoted to livestock and upon it grazed probably fifty head of horses and about as many cattle. The buildings upon the place stand in a hill about three hundred yards back from the main road and are partly hidden from the latter by a barbed wire fence. They consist of the three room, one story shack in which Garcia lived alone and in comparative squalor, and a large barn. The house faces southeast and north-west and is raised about three feet from the ground, giving the basement or cellar underneath in which the body was found.

The largest room was used by Garcia for tools and grain and just opposite this is a side door which leads out into a ravine and would afford excellent shelter for a person who wished to leave the house unseen from the road. Back of this quarter was Garcia's little bedroom and off of this is the kitchen, with steps leading to the door from the back yard. On the left side of the house looks out the kitchen door is a water trough and on the right and a short distance from the house a shed in which the rancher kept some of his farming implements, harness, etc. Back of this and in the north corner of the premises stands the large barn.

The whole is enclosed with a fence from the main road clear around, with a gate at the road. The seclusion of the buildings in the hills offered the best sort of protection to the murderer in the commission of the crime, and the quick leading from the side of the premises must have been the best means of escape offered to him to avoid being seen.

Not Wealthy Man
Developments of the investigation made by Chief Deputy Sheriff J. J. Hanfland and Deputies Jack Sherry and Ed Sweeney at Livermore and the ranch yesterday indicate that instead of Garcia having been a wealthy rancher he was hardly a might call prosperous. Most of his horses were under a chattel mortgage to the owner of the land to secure the rent for the place and about everything else Garcia had on the farm was encumbered. His credit was not good for anything in Livermore and it appears to be a fact that the man had no ready money of any noteworthy amount. It is true that he sold a small bunch of cattle to Peter J. Murray, a Livermore butcher, last Friday for $350, to be delivered on the following Monday, but none of the money was paid to Garcia when the deal was made.

The wife of a man to whom the rancher owed money died and at the murdered man's request Murray gave the creditor $50 on Garcia's account, with which to defray the funeral expenses. Aside from this nothing was paid on the cattle. Garcia owned a small General service car, which he leased, but it is understood that this property is also heavily encumbered.

The Public Administrator of Alameda county has taken charge of the estate temporarily at least. While it may aggregate $10,000 in value in the gross, it is not thought that when all debts are paid there will be more than a few thousand or two dollars to the good. It is stated that one day last week Garcia borrowed $25 from F. E. Bennett, manager of the Livermore Warehouse company, for the purpose of paying a pressing debt and that he gave a chattel mortgage or several head of cattle to secure the loan.

In fact, the dead man was so hard pressed for ready cash that if he had any money at all in his possession it could not have been more than a few dollars at the most. It may be that the stranger for whom the authorities are looking thought that the penniless rancher and a miser's board of wealth on his person or hidden in the house, and slayed him for it, but if such was the case he certainly committed an atrocious crime under a very wild delusion.

Antone Bent Nunez, a neighboring rancher, whose story of the finding of out from hiding, grabbed the weapon and shot Garcia in the back. The rancher staggered and used at his murderer. The letter clubbed him over the head with the rifle and broke it at the stock.

Hacks Victim's Skull
This sent Garcia to the ground, but did not kill him. Then the assassin picked up the ax and finished the job by hacking the skull. He dragged the body into the cellar and closed the door. Leaving the ax and the broken rifle stock on the ground near where he committed the deadly assault, where they were found by Deputy Coroner Reimers, the murderer carried the body to the water trough where it was found, and probably left the scene of his crime by way of the ravine at the side of the house. This seems to be the most accurate theory of the actual killing.

Stranger in Case
There is little doubt but that the murder was committed on Sunday evening Nunez saw and talked with Garcia twice on Saturday afternoon and John Gleese, a neighboring rancher, saw the dead man on Sunday morning and again about 2 o'clock that afternoon. This is the last any of his neighbors saw of him alive. He was going to his ranch when seen Sunday afternoon.

RUNAWAY FOUND ON WATERFRONT

Young Dickson Will Be Taken in Charge by the Detention Officers

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 5.—Edward Dickson, 10 years old, a confirmed runaway, who has been missing from his home at 208 Euclid street for a week past, was discovered on the waterfront at 6:45 this morning by Policeman A. L. Martien of the Harbor station. The lad was asleep in a receptacle under Howard street wharf among a crowd of vagrants and loafers, who had apparently shown the boy where he could find rest secure from police interference.

At sight of the officer the hoodlums succeeded in escaping, but Martien, who was in quest only of Dickson, made no effort to capture them.

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—Balloting on the strike proposition was begun here today by employees of the various surface street car lines. As fast as the men finished their shifts they visited headquarters and deposited their votes. This process will continue until early tomorrow and after that several hours must elapse while the votes are being counted. Official announcement of the result is set for Saturday night. There are 9000 members of the union entitled to vote. A two-thirds majority is required to carry the strike proposition. Union officials watching the balloting report the early vote was in favor of a walkout.

KILLED BY A PASSING AUTO

Portland Widow, Standing in Road by Wrecked Machine, Is Run Down

PORTLAND, Or., Aug. 5.—Mrs. May Real, a widow, was killed early today by an unidentified automobile on the Linnton road, several miles north of this city. Miss Real was one of a party of five or six persons whose automobile had broken down. While repairs were being made the autoists walked up and down the road. Suddenly a big red car came down the road at high speed, struck Mrs. Real and threw her 30 feet from the road, killing her instantly. The red car continued on its way and was soon out of sight.

KIDNAPERS IN DRAGNET SO DECLARE POLICE

Hope to Find the Vivianos Children in Trunks at Chicago

SUSPECTS ARE HELD PENDING INVESTIGATION

Letter to One of the Accused is Intercepted by the Police

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 5.—Rumors that the Vivianos, parents of Grace and Tommaso Viviano, who were kidnaped from their homes here Monday, were communicating secretly with the child's alleged abductors were dispelled today by Pietro Viviano calling at the police station and telling Captain Schoppa that he would prosecute the abductors. He told the police he and his cousin did not have $25,000, the amount demanded as a ransom.

Hold Suspects
The police are holding Joseph Pagano and La Mayra Girolamo, the latter having confessed last night that Pagano, Marchese, Bendito, Samuel Turriani, who was last seen with the children, and Vincenzo Riccardi arranged with him last Sunday to have the trunks, which were found in Chicago, hauled to an express office here.

When Pagano was told of Girolamo's confession he pleaded ignorance and begged to be allowed to end his life.

Watching Trunks
A letter which came into the possession of the police today is believed to be the first communication received in St. Louis from the kidnapers since the father of Grace Viviano received the $25,000 ransom letter.

A letter addressed to Joseph Pagano, one of the men held on suspicion. It came from Chicago and the writer told Pagano he cannot claim "the trunks" because the police are watching them. The police will not divulge the name of the writer.

BISHOP LEADS LIQUOR CRUSADE

Priest Denounces Traffic Following Monster Parade in Chicago

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—Catholic temperance advocates of Chicago marshalled their forces yesterday and directed at the liquor traffic a blow calculated to be a mighty effect in coming political battles against the saloon. Following a parade of 4500 men, women and children down Michigan avenue, the Sunday school and the liquor industry, as a whole, were attacked vigorously by Right Rev. J. R. Regis Calverin, Bishop of Pittsburgh, and other speakers last night at a mass meeting in the Auditorium Theatre.

The parade, witnessed by thousands of persons and having as its result a shipment of corn brought to America from the Orient. The consignor is T. Fujita, of the Japanese brokerage firm of Fujita & Co., who was a passenger on the Tange Maru.

He states that the shipment is for local use, probably to be manufactured into corn starch. It is said that the Manchuria-grown corn has valuable properties for this use and a heavy future trade is predicted upon the success in manufacture of the initial shipment.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS CONVENTION TO END

MOBILE, Aug. 5.—The 25th annual convention of the Knights of Columbus will end tonight. In a report on the $500,000 endowment fund for the scholars, it was announced that 70 per cent of the number of the order had endorsed the fund. The movement was endorsed by the convention and it was decided that the amount be collected within two years and given to the Catholic University.

The members of the national board of directors of the organization will hereafter be required to attend all national conventions. The directory was given power to call a meeting at any time and place deemed practicable.

NEWSPAPER MAN REFUSES TO BE CHIEF OF POLICE

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—Bernard J. Mulvaney, formerly a newspaper man and at present private secretary to Mayor Buesse, today declined to accept the position of chief of police tendered him by the mayor yesterday.

SLAYS NIECE AND THEN TRIES TO ESCAPE

Although Married, He Pays His Attentions to Her For Six Years

JEALOUSY PROMPTS HIM TO COMMIT CRIME

Fires Five Shots From His Revolver and Three Take Effect

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—Herman Ball, aged 30, shot and killed Sarah Ball, his 20-year-old niece, last night and later confessed to the police that notwithstanding the fact that he is married and the father of a family, he had secretly loved the girl he killed for the past six years.

Ball became enraged when he saw the girl and her sister talking with several young men near her home. A quarrel followed and Ball drew a revolver and fired five shots. Three bullets took effect, causing wounds from which Miss Ball died soon after being taken to the County Hospital.

Ball attempted to escape after the shooting, but was arrested.

Miss Ball was employed as a seamstress. The slayer admitted that because of his affection for her he followed her to this country from Russia.

FRED HOOPER IS BACK HOME AGAIN

Convalesces From Illness With Which He Was Stricken at Elks' Convention in South

Fred Hooper of the American-Hawthorn Steamship Company, who was taken seriously ill while in attendance at the celebration in connection with the grand lodge of Elks in Los Angeles a couple of weeks ago, has recovered sufficiently to be brought to his home, 148 Twenty-seventh street, in this city. He has not quite recovered from the attack, however, but is in excellent spirits and entirely out of danger. It is still in the hands of physicians, his home doctor having been substituted for the men who successfully attended him in the south.

Mr. Hooper was one of the most ardent of the members of the local lodge of Elks who attended the celebration in the south and was the right guard in the drill corps which won the prize as the best drilled team at the gathering. He was also of much assistance to the members of the lodge in the matter of transportation by reason of his great familiarity with the railroad business. Mr. Hooper's return is greatly appreciated by the brother members of his order.

JACK JOHNSON'S FIRST CALIFORNIA FIGHT HERE

COLORED FIGHTER TRICKED KENNEDY INTO MEETING HIM AT LOCAL CLUB

Wonderful Physique Was Cause of His Picture Being Run in Paper—North End Club After Papke and Mantell

By EDDIE SMITH.

IT MAY be interesting to the fans to know that Jack Johnson, now heavyweight champion of the world, had his first California fight in Oakland, and the story of the trick he played on his opponent will make plain the hard road he has had to travel to get to the top of the ladder. During the early part of 1902, a long, loose-jointed, easy-going negro, called at the Reliance Club and asked that he be given a match with any of the fighters on the coast who would take him on. This colored man is the present day champion and he had already made a great impression on the fans here with his clever work in the gymnasium.

Johnson at that time had only had a few fights, but had shown great cleverness in those that he had engaged in and a certain reputation as to his ability had also preceded him to the coast. Johnson at that time was as flat broke as ever a fighter could be, and it was not a case of how much he would demand for a fight; it was a case of how much could he get.

It was agreed that Johnson should be given a match here, and an opponent was searched for. The middleweights, for Johnson was able to make a lightweight in those days, and the light heavyweights would have nothing to do with the colored man, and Joe Kennedy was selected as the opponent. Joe was at that time acting as sparring partner to Jeffries, but the champion had gone to Los Angeles for a rest. An effort was made to get the big Californian, but he refused the match and when Johnson was finally informed that Kennedy would not go on the colored man showed the greatest disappointment.

Fools Kennedy and Club

After having gone over the list of eligibles Johnson finally informed the matchmaker of the Reliance Club that he would try to get Kennedy to fight by going up to him and insulting him in front of his friends and declaring that he was afraid to fight. To the surprise of the matchmaker, Kennedy sent word the next day that he was ready to take Johnson on and that he would be over that afternoon to sign articles. True to his word, Kennedy was over and the signing of articles was easy, there being no $50,000 purse to divide.

The day of the contest arrived and both men entered the ring, Johnson in the very pink of condition and Kennedy fat and unfit, he having trained just enough to be able to box fifteen rounds at a fast clip. As soon as the bell rang Johnson was at Kennedy like a tiger and in less than one minute Kennedy was counting the pretty little stars from a kneeling position on the canvas covering on the ring.

It took no great power in the art of deduction to see from the very first punch that Johnson was fooling the white man and Kennedy was a helpless wreck throughout the four rounds they boxed, Joe taking the count in the fourth.

Johnson Promised to Lose

It afterwards developed that instead of Johnson going over to Kennedy and telling him face to face that he was afraid to fight, that he called on the white man and in a very gentlemanly manner informed Kennedy that they should take the match and split the purse money between them. Johnson also promised Kennedy that he would not train for the bout to any great extent and that he would allow him to stay the fifteen rounds and even get the decision if he desired.

Kennedy agreed and it was arranged that Johnson should lose. Kennedy and his friends bet their money on the white man, fully expecting that Johnson would lose, but the colored man came through an easy winner with all the money, but some very bitter enemies.

Johnson at that time was also lucky enough to get his picture in the sporting columns of the papers for perhaps the first time in his life. The club's press agent had little hope of getting the colored man's picture run in the papers, for it was a rather hard thing in those days to get any kind of a fighter's picture in the paper, and especially a colored fighter.

How Picture Was Run

The agent called at one of the San Francisco dailies and while chatting with the sporting editor he flashed a picture of Johnson with a request that it be run if possible. The sporting editor said he was willing, but that he had some doubt as to the chances of getting it through. Just about this time Ernest Simpson, who was at the time managing editor of this particular paper, passed by, and noticing the picture picked it up, and after a rather careful examination expressed the opinion that, although the man was black, he was one of the finest specimens of athletic manhood he had ever seen, and when asked if the picture could be run, he quickly gave his consent, saying at the time: "Any man with a physique like that should have his picture run whether he is black or white."

That is the story of how Jack Johnson first got his picture in the papers here, and perhaps he would have been a good deal longer in getting it run had it not been that Simpson had a keen eye and a love for athletics.

Johnson has had all these things to contend with in his trip up the pugilistic ladder of fame, and now that he may be a principal in the greatest ring battle of Queensberry history, he will have to take a bit the worst of the financial arrangements to get the match.

Attell Kicking Over Traces

The Mission Athletic Club is having some trouble with Monte Attell and for that reason the match between the champion and Percy Cox may be called off and another substituted. Eddie Meny has been mentioned as the man to take Monte's place. Cox and his manager, Jack Sullivan, have started to train at Al White's St. Julian Hotel at Freeman's Park and will remain there until the day of the battle.

It is hoped that the Mission Club officials will find a way to patch up their troubles with Attell, which it is understood are all over the posting of a forfeit for the contest, and whether or not Attell wins the fight with Reagan here next Wednesday.

Lercari After Papke

Carlo Lercari is after Billy Papke and Frank Mantell for a twenty-round contest on Labor Day or the evening of the holiday, the time to be set later. Papke has sent word that he is willing to take the Providence man on, but that he will demand a guarantee for his end of the purse of at least $2500. It is the guarantee proposition that the management fell down on, for they do not want to take the chance of guaranteeing the men a set sum.

Papke and Mantell would make a fairly good card and the management should feel confident enough to make such a small guarantee as the Keweenaw man desires. Papke fought Jim Flynn at Los Angeles with no guarantee and he was well trimmed, for it is said that he only received about $1000 for his end, and it is no doubt with a remembrance of that contest that he wants a guarantee.

San Fitzpatrick, who is managing Mantell, says that most any kind of a purse will do for them, as they simply want the chance to get a start to show the people of the bay cities what Mantell can do. Frank McDonald announced this morning that in case the North Enders have any trouble in securing Papke he will send for Hugo

BOXING CONTESTS ARE DOOMED IN INDIANA

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Aug. 5.—There is not likely to be any more boxing in Indiana for some time to come. Governor Marshall yesterday received assurances from sheriffs in the various counties where bouts have been held that they would prevent any further exhibitions. The sheriff of Lake county, where several bouts have been held, says in his note that he has been ready to stop the contests at any time.

$10,000 Trotting Stakes Are Captured by Margin

KALAMAZOO, Mich., Aug. 5.—For the second time this season Margin, a general favorite, landed a $10,000 purse by winning the 2:14 trot. The money did not come easy, as she was hard pressed at all times, finishing first in only two of the heats. The others were divided, but Margin showed best in the sunmary, five heats ending the race under the rule. While the track was exceedingly heavy as the result of an entire afternoon of rain, Margin made exceedingly fast time in the second heat, defeating Marie N. by barely a neck. Judge Lee came up along in the third heat and easily took it from Margin and in the fourth Elvira was so far ahead when the home stretch was reached that the other horses could not prevent her from taking the heat.

Interesting Tennis Games Are Played at Tacoma

TACOMA, Aug. 5.—The Pacific Northwest tennis tournament here is moving along rapidly to the finals. One of the most interesting matches yesterday marked the defeat of Murray and Hart, the University of Washington team, by Bowden and Wilcox of Everett, 6-2, 3-6, 6-1. Bowden and Wilcox were in turn put out on the evening by Fitz and Russell, the crack Seattle pair.

JOLLY TIME FOR ANGLERS

PLEASANTON, Aug. 5.—Preparations for the barbecue of the Alameda County Fish and Game Protective Association are complete. The biggest affair ever held by that organization. The event is to take place next Sunday at Camp Bonita, a favorite summer resort three miles west of here along the banks of the Arroyo del Valle.

COMISKY AFTER GESSLER

Rumor has it that Charlie Comisky is very anxious to land "Doc" Gessler for the Sox. Boston seems willing to make a deal if "Commy" will turn over Burns, Willie or Smith. This trio of slappers is well liked, and there doesn't seem to be much of a chance for such a trade going through.

Knights of Honor Win

The Knights of Honor defeated the crack Fruitvale Reds by a score of 10 to 0 in a fast and exciting game Sunday morning on their home grounds. The features of the game was the pitching of both teams, each allowing only three hits. Knights have open dates for August 18, 22, 26. Address A. Cohn, 10 Sansome street, San Francisco.

High-Priced Recruit, Bought by Comiskey, Breaks His Fibula

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 5.—The injury sustained by Russell Blackburn, the young shortstop of the Providence team, who recently was sold to the Chicago Americans at a big price, becomes more serious than was at first reported, and there are grave doubts about his being able to play again this season. In the fourth inning of the last game in Montreal Wednesday, while trying to steal third, he wrenched his leg and it was thought he had simply strained it. An examination yesterday, however, revealed that he had broken the fibula six inches above the ankle.

McLoughlin and Jones Easy Tennis Victors Over Pell and Grant

LAKE FOREST, Ill., Aug. 5.—In the finals of the preliminary national tennis doubles yesterday at the Onwenta Country Club, Manrice McLoughlin and George Jones, champions of the Pacific coast, won an easy victory over Wylie C. Grant and Theodore Roosevelt Pell, title-holders of the South. The score was 6-1, 6-2, 6-1.

The victory entitled McLoughlin and Jones to compete against H. H. Hackett and F. J. Alexander, national title-holders, for the championship of America, the match to be played August 11 at Newport.

The coast champions fairly played Pell and Grant off their feet with the exception of the first set, when the young Californians seemed unable to get into action.

The work of McLoughlin and Jones was a revelation in regard to speed, their returns going back over the net as though the ball had been shot from a cannon.

Grant Weakest Player

The service of the players also was brilliant, especially that of McLoughlin. Grant appeared to be the weaker member of his team, and the Californians took advantage of this and kept him busy much of the time.

In the second set, McLoughlin and Jones set a terrific pace and won, 6 to 2. The third set was a love game affair, four of the nine games resulting in blanks for either one of the contending teams.

In the final part of this set the South-erners weakened and allowed McLoughlin and Jones to take it, 6-2. The fourth set was even easier than the two previous for the Californians, although the score was 6-3. McLoughlin and Jones won the first four games, Grant and Pell then alternated until the final one, which McLoughlin won in whitewash fashion on his service by making it a love game.

Pitcher Arrested for Assaulting Cartoonist

DECATUR, Ill., Aug. 5.—Albert (Beary) Jacobson, ex-pitcher of St. Louis and Washington ball teams, and now pitching for Decatur in the "Three Leagues," is under $1000 bonds for an alleged assault on H. W. Kane, a local cartoonist.

Jacobson had taken offense at a sporting note in the paper, and meeting Kane in front of the office yesterday, is said to have knocked him down and kicked him in the head. Kane went to the office and was later found unconscious. It is thought his skull is fractured. Jacobson did not know Kane, and had no personal grudge against him.

English Bantam Boxer Pleases New York Fans

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Jim Kendrick, champion game fowl of England, made his metropolitan debut here last night in a fast ten round bout with Jimmy Daly of New York at the Sharkey Athletic Club. The Englishman seemed to have the better of it, although both finished strong.

Kinsella Is Recommended To Sox by Fielder Jones

Fielder Jones doesn't want to play with the Sox, but his heart is still with them. He keeps his eye open for pitchers, and found one which he bought in Commy's name yesterday. His name is Kinsella, and he comes from the Portland Western team.

Fifteen Days Racing at Reno

BUTTE, Mont., Aug. 5.—Manager Murray of the Reno Jockey Club, announces that racing will commence at Reno August 17 for fifteen days and be held at 10:30 a.m. each day at the fair, with racing days to follow. The horses will leave Butte, August 11 for Reno. The program book gives six races daily, for purses of from $200 to $250.

OAKLAND CLUB BUYS OUTFIELDER MAGGERT FROM SPRINGFIELD CLUB

The Oakland Coast League Club has just closed a deal with the Springfield club in the Connecticut league for the services of Outfielder Maggert. The new player will be delivered by September 1.

Up to a week ago he has been clouting the leather at a $25 clip and leads off in the batting order. He is left handed and Don Cameron, who played on the same team as he did three years ago, speaks very highly of him, and says he will fill the vacancy caused by Murphy's absence. In 1907 he was drafted by the Pittsburgh club, but slumped in the early part of the season and was let out.

His record with the Springfield club last year is as follows: In 55 games he hit .312, made 27 runs, stole 23 bases, obtained 87 put outs, three as lefts, five errors and had a fielding average of .947.

In 1907 he was a member of the Wheeling club in the central league. He played in 119 games and batted .273, making 58 runs, 183 put outs, 21 assists and ten errors, giving him an average of .956.

His batting record figured up for 67 games played this year gives him an average of .402, which is evidence enough that he is clouting the ball at a terrific pace.

Bresnahan's Two New Twirlers Mere Beginners But Have Good Futures

"Bob" Harmon, who won in eleven innings the Class A game at the coast, is just 21. Bresnahan purchased his release from the Shreveport (Texas League) club a month ago; price, $2500. Last year Harmon played with a semi-professional team in Morenci, Arizona. Backman, who lost a brilliant 1-0 battle to "Nap" Rucker in Brooklyn a week ago Saturday, and who held his own in a stretch run with "Minner" Brown at League Park, pitched for the Rose Polytechnic nine last spring. In May he ran away from home, adopted the assumed name of "Barton," and signed with the Portsmouth (Ohio State League) team. He was with the outfit less than a month when discovered by Bresnahan and purchased; price, $2500.

Harmon and Backman have brilliant futures. It is doubtful if any player in the big arena owns a more powerful frame or a broader pair of shoulders than Backman. In his baseball togs he looked like a young Anous Russia. And he twirled that way.

DR. ROLLER IS LOSING OUT IN WRESTLING REPUTATION

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 5.—Dr. B. F. Roller last night failed to throw Charles Olson of Minneapolis and Big Yousif, a Turk, in seventy-five minutes' wrestling. Roller took the first fall from Yousif in four minutes twenty seconds on a head and wrist lock. Roller was exhausted after the first fall and in the bout with Olson was forced into the defensive to prevent being thrown himself.

HEYDLER, PRESIDENT PRO TEM MERELY, SAYS GARRY HERMANN

CINCINNATI, Aug. 5.—President Hermann of the Cincinnati club, who returned yesterday from a month's trip to the Pacific coast, made the statement yesterday morning that he did not think that John Heydler would be elected the permanent president of the National League at the annual meeting in December. "Heydler is a splendid man, an honor to the sport," declared Hermann, "but I do not think he is quite heavy enough for the presidential job."

Northwestern League

SPOKANE, Aug. 5.—Spokane won on long home runs by James and Ostleick with men on bases. Five pitchers were utterly unable to stop the batting. Wright alone proving effective in cutting down runs. The score:

Spokane	13	12
Batteries—Hickey, Gilligan and Brooks;
Jensen, Holm, Wright and Ostleick.

ABERDEEN, Wash., Aug. 5. — Aberdeen won a listless game from Tacoma yesterday. The feature of the game was the work of Klippert in center. Score:

PITCHER GETS FIVE HITS

The Eagles defeated the All-Saints Sunday by the score of 11 to 1. The features of the game were the pitching of the team of F. Short, of the Eagles, who struck out ten men and got two home runs and three three-baggers. The Eagles would like to get a game from the Junior Centuries of East Oakland. Address challenges to F. Short, 1211 14th avenue, East Oakland.

Good Ball Playing of Amateurs May Prevent Series of Professionals

SAN JOSE, Aug. 5.—The Santa Clara Amateur League has secured control of the former State League ball grounds at Luna Park and is playing double-headers there every Sunday afternoon. As a result the professional club organized by C. O. Baker may be forced to abandon a proposed five or nine game series with the Napa team because the Amateur League's directors are likely to refuse, at a meeting to be held Friday afternoon, to entertain a proposition from Baker, who proposes that they play their scheduled games in conjunction with his Napa-San Jose series and take ten per cent of the gate receipts.

KID WILKIE WINS THE BIG TROTTERING RACE AT SALINAS

SALINAS, Aug. 5.—Kid Wilkie won the $2000 California stake for 2:20 class trotters yesterday, at the first day's program of the Pacific Coast Trotting Horse Breeders' Association. Spaulding took second money. Heedon took third, and his Miller and Wagon wheels finished in the following order: Lupton Dillon, Olie B. Laurel Leaf, Kinney Rose, Lead-er G. Scotch John and Silver Hunter. The best time was 2:19.

The 2:19 class trot was won by Emily W. Goldcast and second and Belle J. Kelly third. Best time, 2:20.

The 2:15 class race had only three starters. Queen Derby won, Lady B. was second and Let-ty D. third. Best time, 2:19. Six runners.

Dewey Hickey of the House of Bush made the trip to California with President Robison and Scout Gilbert of the Cardinals. In a letter to a St. Louis friend he states that the fans are going to be agreeably surprised when they see the three new recruits President

"I don't care to name the infelder, because I was told not to," writes Hickey, "but he's the best one on the coast and one of the fastest performers I have ever seen. Then, the two new pitchers look mighty good to me."

The best infelder in California is Rollo Zeider of the San Francisco team. Pretty nearly every club in both big leagues have put in bids for him. Cleveland was hot after him, but declined to pay $8000, San Francisco's price. If Zeider is the player Robison has landed the Cardinals have probably annexed a young infelder of the

I REWARDS OF $100 IN PRIZES

THE PRIZES STILL CONTINUE

Awards Announced Again Sunday

In Last Night's (Wednesday's) Issue We Gave the Names of the Winners for the First Half of the Week, Also the Words Misspelled.

INSTRUCTIONS AND RULES OF CONTEST

Anybody (except employees of THE TRIBUNE) allowed to participate. A chance every day to compete. No difficulty, no puzzle. Only a careful perusal of each classified advertisement to find the misspelled word. New words will appear every day.

For a number of weeks, to the one sending in the first correct answer in his decision of the word misspelled, also the BEST AND WISDEST REASON why the advertiser in question should be patronized, a prize of $5 will be paid.

For the second, third, fourth, fifth and sixth answers, in the order received, prizes to the value of $1 apiece in merchandise will be awarded to each one of the successful contestants. These merchandise prizes are now on display in the window of Hill & Selzer's store, northeast corner Ninth and Washington streets.

The misspelled words will not appear in the following classifications: Situations Wanted, Male or Female; Agents Wanted; Lost and Found; Solicitors Wanted; Rooms and Board Wanted; or Houses and Rooms Wanted. Answers to be brought in or sent to THE TRIBUNE Main office, Eighth and Franklin streets, and not taken at any of our Branch Offices. Address LITTLE WAT-DAW DEPARTMENT.

SPECIAL INSTRUCTIONS.

The misspelled word appears only on the classified pages, and not in the display ads of the paper. Neither will it appear in THE TRIBUNE's matter pertaining to its own business.

The word misspelled is self-evident, a mistake easy to find. Try again. An abbreviation is not an error. If you are uncertain just what the right one, send in all those misspelled, and we will allow just the same if the correct one is amongst them.
